Bleak Outlook Seen By Conoco Stations

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Last Saturday, Harry's Conoco rang up two 89-cent items on the cash register. And that's all, said lessee Harry C. Bale. At 10 a.m. Thursday, he'd made zero sales. He's pumping no gas.

Robert E. Whitney, 12th & L. Conoco lessee, is trying to limit his customers to five-gallon purchases to serve more people. "We're not in very good shape," he said.

Officials from Lincoln to Washington say Conoco and other gasoline suppliers are facing some problems they can't control, and no one seems to know when or how allocation questions will be resolved.

Conoco had told Whitney, "No problem, we've got plenty of gas." Then the company notified its lessees their supplies would be cut back to 104% of the 1972 volumes, he said, and later that was reduced to 100%.

But notification of the cutbacks came after lessees had used up early most of their January allocations, thinking more gas would be available.

"I don't know what I'm going to do," Bale said. He has "400 gallons in the ground, but I can't pump it." Why? "It'll take it away from my February (allocation)."

Whitney said "all the Conoco stations in Lincoln" have been hit with the same pinch.

State Petroleum Allocation Office Director William Peters said his office can't help, because "we have no state reserve in effect" until Feb. 1. He contacted Conoco distributors and referred the problem to Washington.

Don Shasteen, administrative assistant to Sen. Carl Curtis, said Thursday by telephone the Jan. 15 fuel regulations "are in effect, although FEO (Federal Energy Office) has said it might take until Feb. 1 to get all the kinks ironed out."

Meanwhile, he said, "There seems to be a breakdown in communications between the Conoco people and their distributors and dealers" regarding the cut in January allocations.

Shasteen said the Federal Register, which "has the force of law," ordered Conoco on Jan. 22 to sell to other oil companies 5,648,558 barrels of its oil to be refined between February and April. Conoco is third highest on a list of 70 to 75 oil companies similarly ordered.

"This is going to cause disruptions," Shasteen said. "Conoco held back because they don't know how much supply they're going to have. They're holding to the 1972 level" to protect themselves.

He said Conoco believes "there's been a mistake in the formula." Curtis' office has contacted Lincoln Conoco lessees and distributors, Shasteen said, and asked for a meeting of Conoco and FEO officials in Washington.

Lincoln Conoco officials could not be reached for comment Thursday.

Meanwhile, Whitney said "several" Lincoln Conocos are out of gas and Bale said he believes "it's going to be as bleak next month as it is this month."

A spot check of other Lincoln major oil company lessees revealed similar but not as severe problems. Gross Standard Service, 10th & M, reported it has already used its January allocation and is now limiting sales to 10 gallons.

Pittman's Texaco Service, 48th & Vine, has been cut 40% in allocations since June 1973, and has been getting its allocation notices two to three weeks late. Melichar & Munn 66 Service at 205 N. 9th reported "no trouble yet" with allocations.

Chic Owen of Owen's Red Horse Mobil Service, 17th & South, said he "lost another load because simple Simon cut us another 7%." His reference was to FEO Chief William E. Simon. "He's chopped our throat," Owen said.

Rather than limit gallons to customers, Owen said he's cutting his operating hours. Referring to all Lincoln service stations, he said, "We're all in big trouble."

County Civil Service Bill Center Of Debate

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

"The monstrosity of the day" as LB630 was termed by Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee Chairman Sen. Ernie Chambers prompted nearly three hours of testimony Thursday including proposed amendments which neither the committee members nor persons appearing on the bill had seen in advance.

Sen. Orval Keyes of Springfield, who introduced the bill which would reduce the size of the counties included in a mandatory civil service plan for county government now in effect in Douglas County to 60,000, offered a proposed amendment which would make the plan permissive in all counties.

Chambers, who contended that the amendment should be heard at some other time since those present at the hearing had come to be heard on LB630, said that the line of the proposed amendment which states that the county board will make a determination as to whether or not a Civil Service Commission shall be formed "is a killer for the employees" who according to the proposal, could petition for the establishment of the commission.

Robert Galloway from Douglas County also offered a proposal to amend the present plan implemented in Douglas County to change the composition of the commission and increase the number from five to seven.

Douglas Curry, attorney representing the Lancaster County Employees, urged passage of LB630 to give Lancaster County an opportunity to implement the system now in effect in Douglas County and then see what problems there are.

He presented a petition containing some 200 signatures of county employees supporting the bill which also drew strong support from elected county officials other than the Lancaster County commissioners who appeared in opposition to the bill.

In response to questioning regarding a proposal which may be introduced as a bill by Sen. Wally Barnett through the committee, Curry said he was aware of the proposal submitted by the county commissioners.

However, he said that it "emasculates" the civil service commission of the county by "being under the thumb of the county board."

Barnett said he was hoping to get that proposal introduced and urged the county commissioners and other elected officials of Lancaster County settle their own differences.

Lancaster County Assessor Fritz Meyer, speaking in behalf of the elected officials other than the commissioners, said that the Douglas County personnel system would be beneficial to Lancaster County and that the elected officials of Lancaster County were opposing Lancaster County's being exempt from LB630.

Lancaster County Commissioners Jan Gauger and Robert Colin, speaking in opposition to LB630, asked that Lancaster County be excluded from the bill to permit it to work out a plan proposed by the U.S. Civil Service Commission so that the money spent for that study "would not be down the drain."

Roy Ostrander, president of the Lancaster County Employees Association, testified that the county employees had no input into the study referred to by the commissioners.

Mrs. Gauger said that there were changes made after a meeting was held with the consultants from the U.S. Civil Service with county employees, but Barnett questioned who he was to believe when the county employees said they had no input.

"If the employees feel they had no input as a matter of social and human fact, they had no input," Chambers commented.

Also speaking out in support of exempting Lancaster County from LB630 were Harvey Schwartz, president of the Lincoln Personnel Management Association, and Jeanne Kelley of the League of Women Voters.

The committee held LB630 along with all other bills heard Thursday including LB614, introduced by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff.

That bill would make it unlawful to accept cash contributions for political campaigns.

Speaking in support of LB614, Carpenter said that between 5% and 25% of the money given for campaigns is in the form of currency and felt that his bill would "go a long way toward stopping some of the abuses."

When asked about putting a dollar amount in the bill such as contributions of more than $200 must be in checks for purposes of record-keeping, Carpenter said that he might be willing to go along with $50 but not as much as $200.

Even then, Carpenter said, people could give as many $50 contributions as they wanted without having any check.

COMMISSIONER GAY . . . home from tour.

United Telephone Co. Hosts Officials' Tour

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Two Nebraska public service commissioners and three staff members returned Thursday from a three-day trip, which included a stay at Disneyworld near Orlando, Fla., all courtesy of a subsidiary of United Telephone Co. of the West.

Commissioners Duane Gay of Columbus and Robert Marland of Lincoln arrived in Lincoln Thursday afternoon aboard a Lear jet (call letters N744UT) operated by United Telephone. The third commission on the journey, chairman John Swanson of Eustis, reportedly stayed in Kansas City, Mo.

Under Nebraska law, the commission regulates service provided and rates charged by Nebraska telephone companies, including United Telephone which serves the Scottsbluff region.

In a interview moments after debarking the jet, Marland said the trip was made to inspect new electronic switching and computer equipment made by the subsidiary, North Electric Co. of Overland Park, Kan., at its plants in Tennessee, Ohio and Kansas City.

A secretary for the commission said Wednesday the three commissioners along with Executive Secretary Everett Green, Communications Chief Herb Sherdon and Engineer Gerald Sasek were attending "a convention," but she said she did not know what convention.

A check by The Star revealed the commissioners were registered Tuesday night at the Contemporary Resort in Disneyworld. A desk clerk there reported the rates ranged from $32-$46 per night.

A spokesman for United Telephone in Overland Park said the firm does not have a plant in Orlando.

When asked why the inspection included a trip to Disneyworld, Marland said United Telephone is acquiring the telephone system there.

Marland said he sees no conflict of interest in the fact that the trip was taken at the expense of United Telephone.

"This was not a junket," Marland said. "This was an information-gathering trip to help the commission keep current on communications progress," he added glancing at stacks of papers staff members held.

"It's no thrill to go through a plant in Johnson City, Tenn., believe me. If this trip helps me in my job as a commissioner, I don't see what's wrong with it. It's my job to stay abreast of developments in the communications field."

"I don't feel guilty at all," Marland stated. "If I thought it was wrong, I wouldn't have gone. The trip was most enlightening."

He said there is "no way" the trip could be used by United Telephone to influence any rate or service decisions reached by the commission. Each application, he said, is considered on an individual basis according to its merit.

United Telephone has only minimal interests in Nebraska, he pointed out. The bulk of its business is in the southeastern U.S.

"Every member of this commission has taken a similar trip (with United Telephone). This is the first one I've taken," he said.

Speaking to a reporter, Marland said, "This witch hunt has me upset. Frankly, I don't like it."

Commissioner Gay and the staff members left the airport before they could be interviewed.

Commissioners Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont and James Munnely of Omaha reported they had previous engagements and did not go on the trip.

Hesser Submits Resignation

Beatrice Police Chief Merl Hesser Thursday backed down from a showdown with the Legislature over his qualifications for a corrections post he was named to by Gov. J. James Exon.

Hesser submitted a letter removing him from the directorship of the State Department of Corrections only four days after being nominated. Exon said he regretfully accepted the resignation.

Hesser's appointment came under fire Tuesday from legislators who pointed to a 1973 law which requires the director to have at least 10 years of experience in corrections.

Legislators said Hesser's experience as an officer with the Lincoln Police Department for 10 years and the Beatrice police chief for 8 years did not qualify him for the corrections post.

HOVLAND-SWANSON

Beatrice Mayor Robert Sargent said the city would be "more than happy" to rescind Hesser's resignation as that city's police chief.

Until a new director can be found to replace Victor Walker, Exon said Don Best, superintendent of the Youth Development Center at Geneva, will serve as acting director. Exon said he had offered the directorship to Best at first; however, he reported Best turned the offer down.

Exon said he was "disappointed" to lose Hesser, "since Nebraska has lost an opportunity to have a dedicated and talented man at the head of our corrections program."

Hesser's appointment would have faced stiff opposition in the Legislature which must confirm the eventual director's appointment.

Police Support Hesser

Gov. J. James Exon reported Thursday he has received a resolution from the Nebraska Police Officers Association supporting the appointment of Merl Hesser as the state director of corrections.

However, Exon said the resolution has not changed his decision to accept Hesser's letter removing his name from nomination to the post. That letter was received Thursday, after opposition to the appointment of the law enforcement official to the corrections post surfaced among state senators.

The resolution, which was adopted at a joint meeting of the association's board of directors and legislative committee, said the association "strongly believes the critics of Hesser's appointment . . . should give consideration to the victims of crime."

Mansfield Voices 'Grave Concern'

. . . Policy Poaching Hit

Washington (UPI) — Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger came under fire Thursday on charges he suggested possible renewed involvement in Vietnam and U.S. military action in the Middle East to end the Arab oil embargo.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, in a speech to a caucus of Democratic senators, expressed "gravest concern" over what he said was a tendency of Schlesinger to inject his views into sensitive foreign policy areas.

The Montana senator asked the Armed Services Committee to look into the matter.

He objected particularly to recent Schlesinger comments which Mansfield said suggested "the possibility of U.S. military incursions into the Middle East to bring out the oil and a reinforcement of our forces in the still unsettled conflict of Vietnam."

Schlesinger was not immediately aware of Mansfield's comments.

"The secretary of defense would do well to concentrate his concern on holding down the costs of his department which place an enormous tax burden on the people of the nation and on keeping the armed forces in a state of sufficient readiness to respond to the lawful directions of the President and the Congress," Mansfield said.

"Off-hand comments on questions of foreign policy are not in the compass of that responsibility and I would suggest, most respectfully, therefore that the Senate's Armed Services Committee which has oversight of the Defense Department should examine any tendencies to stray beyond that compass."

Mansfield, citing the "bitter and tragic lessons of Vietnam," said the Senate had gone on record against "future arbitrary use of U.S. forces abroad."

He said he wanted "to express the gravest concern over what can only be described as certain offhand, widely publicized comments which were made recently by the secretary of defense."

Schlesinger has said repeatedly that in the event of an all-out North Vietnamese offensive against South Vietnam, it was "highly likely" the Nixon administration would request congressional authority to resume bombing.

Mansfield, in contrast to his criticism of Schlesinger, praised Secretary of State Henry Kissinger who, he said, "has the confidence of the Senate."

Secretary Scoffs At Spy Ring

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger said Thursday "there were clearly improprieties" in the 1971 transmission of White House documents to the military chiefs. However, he scoffed at the idea of a spy ring.

"I think the thing has been blown out of all context," Schlesinger said at a news conference.

Saying his investigation had turned up no evidence of any illegal actions, the Pentagon chief added that "I don't think that there was a spy ring or a Seven Days in May" exaggeration there. "In the novel Seven Days in May members of the Joint Chiefs staff plotted to seize control of the government."

Schlesinger indicated he has gone about as far as he intends to go for now in investigating the 1971 episode. He gave Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs, a vote of confidence even while saying that "it is clear that Adm. Moorer was less than fully alert" that he was getting unauthorized material from the National Security Council files.

At another point in the long news conference, Schlesinger attempted to clarify his recent assertion of a change in the nation's nuclear targeting doctrine designed to widen the President's choices for responding to a possible Soviet nuclear threat.

Schlesinger stressed that the new approach "does not mean we are pointing missiles away from cities at military targets" but indicated the United States is broadening the number of military targets on the deterrent list. Thus, the President could pick and choose to suit the nature of the threat and avoid, if possible, all-out nuclear war.

Israelis Speed Up Withdrawal

By The Associated Press

Israel speeded up its military pullback Thursday in Egypt, and Cairo will make its first negotiated withdrawal along the Suez Canal front on Friday, the United Nations Emergency Force commander said.

Full-scale Israeli withdrawal from the west side of the Suez Canal and the first Egyptian movement from the east side is based on a technical military document signed Thursday on the Cairo-Suez road, said the commander of the U.N. force, Lt. Gen. Ensio Siilasvuo of Finland.

Israeli forces began withdrawing on Wednesday from the west side of the canal while the Egyptian and Israeli chiefs of staff still were discussing the technical document.

The document was signed by Lt. Gen. David Elazar of Israel, and Lt. Gen. Mohamed Abdel Ghany Gamasy of Egypt, the two countries' chiefs of staff.

Separation of the two armies could lead to full peace talks.

Athens — Two Arab terrorists were sentenced to death after pleading guilty to murdering five persons and wounding 55 others in a grenade attack at the Athens airport last summer. The sentences were imposed after a one-day trial in Athens criminal court before four judges and three jurors.

Krogh Refused To OK Wiretap

Washington — Egil Krogh Jr. was reportedly dismissed from his post with the plumbers in December, 1971, after he refused to authorize a wiretap in connection with an investigation into the publication of secret government information on the India-Pakistan conflict. According to reliable sources, Krogh was dismissed by John D. Ehrlichman after he balked at the wiretap request.

House Vote Called Disaster

Washington — Robert S. McNamara, the president of the World Bank, said that the House vote denying new United States contributions to the bank was "an unmitigated disaster for hundreds of millions of people in the poorest nations of the world." In a rare public comment on legislative action by a member country, McNamara said the $1.5 billion in funds had been slated to help the world's 21 "least developed" countries.

Krogh Handed Prison Term

Washington — Insisting that President Nixon had not authorized his actions in any way, Egil Krogh Jr., the former head of the White House "plumbers," was sentenced to six months in prison on charges growing out of the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. "I received no specific instruction or authority whatsoever regarding the break-in from the President, directly or indirectly," Krogh said shortly after his sentencing in Washington.

Ratification Of Probe To Be Asked

Washington — Senior members of the House Judiciary Committee agreed to ask the full House of Representatives for formal ratification of the committee investigation of President Nixon's conduct in office. After the decision by members representing both parties, the chairman, Peter W. Rodino Jr., said the committee would seek a resolution giving the panel broad subpoena powers and "confirming the full prestige of the House of Representatives in anything we do."

Egyptians, Israelis Ink Agreement

Cairo — Egyptian and Israeli military commanders worked out the final details of the disengagement of their forces along the Suez Canal and signed a technical agreement that will allow the redeployment to begin on schedule Friday. (More on Page 1.)

Oil Industry Criticizes Hearings

New York — Responding angrily to charges by Sen. Henry M. Jackson and members of his subcommittee investigating the energy shortage, the oil industry sharply criticized the conduct of this week's hearings and defended itself against a range of accusations leveled by the senators. (More on Page 3.)

Senate Shelves Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Thursday to cut personal income taxes by $3.5 billion a year but then turned around and shelved the legislation.

First it adopted 53 to 27 a proposal of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to raise the personal income tax exemption from $750 to $850, retroactive through 1973.

But then it accepted 48 to 27 a motion of Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., to return the bill to the Finance Committee which he chairs, thus dropping it for the time being.

Long said the personal exemption amendment, as well as another successful Kennedy rider, and several other floor amendments had loaded the bill down so much that it must be studied carefully.

The second Kennedy amendment adopted would have raised $860 million a year from higher income tax payers by revising the minimum tax provision in the 1969 tax reform law aimed at such persons.

Long opposed both amendments, which were among a long string of Senate riders added to a minor House-passed revenue bill.

A Nixon administration spokesman at the Capitol said the executive branch also was against both of the Kennedy proposals.

Kennedy said the increased buying power resulting from his amendment on exemptions would help stave off a serious economic downturn this year.

"The biggest danger facing the nation today is an energy-induced recession in 1974," he declared.

The provision would be retroactive to cover 1973 and thus would give double relief to taxpayers this year.

It would reduce the 1973 tax they would have to pay on the returns due by April 15 and also would be reflected in lowered withholding rates on their 1974 income.

KROGH ... to jail.

'Bud' Krogh
Is Sentenced To Jail Term

Washington (UPI) — Egil "Bud" Krogh, former head of the White House plumbers unit, said Thursday after being sentenced to a minimum of six months in jail that he received no instructions from President Nixon to break into the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Krogh, 34, who pleaded guilty Nov. 30 to one count of violating the civil rights of psychiatrist Lewis J. Fielding, said he was authorized to "engage in covert activity" by Nixon's former adviser, John D. Ehrlichman. But he declined to say if Ehrlichman approved the break-in.

An explanation of how and why Krogh ordered the break-in was contained in a 12-page statement which he issued to newsmen immediately after being sentenced by U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell.

The judge suspended all but six months of a 2-6 year prison sentence and ordered two years of unsupervised probation after Krogh's release. He also allowed Krogh 10 days of freedom to attend to his personal affairs before surrendering to federal marshals.

Although Krogh could have been sentenced to a maximum of 10 years in jail and a $10,000 fine, Gesell said he took into consideration Krogh's deep sense of remorse and the fact that his "wholly improper, illegal task was assigned... by a higher authority."

Memos: Milk Funds Promised

Washington (UPI) — Three White House memos filed in connection with consumer advocate Ralph Nader's suit to roll back milk support prices revealed Thursday that milk producers promised $90,000 a month to President Nixon's 1972 campaign.

Gordon C. Strachan, liaison between the re-election campaign and then-White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, reported to Haldeman in a Sept.

11, 1971, memo that the milk producers had contributed $232,500 by that time — only half of the commitment.

About six months earlier, Nixon met with dairy leaders and the administration increased the federal support price on raw milk to 85% of parity.

Nader filed suit several months ago to roll back the increase on grounds it was politically influenced. The White House contended in a "white paper" earlier this month that it raised the support price for economic reasons and because the Democratic Congress had "put a gun to our heads" for an even larger increase.

The White House also said the milk cooperatives gave $437,000 to the campaign, although it acknowledged the industry had indicated it tried to raise $2 million.

Strachan wrote in the Sept. 11, 1971 memo:

"Lee Nunn realized that $232,500 has been realized. This is slightly more than one-half of the amount that should have been delivered on the commitment, $90,000 per month..."

"It is Nunn and Sloan's opinion that Colson has established a separate agreement with the milk people in order to have cash available. I have not checked with Colson as this may be an agreement outside my area of responsibility."

"If the alleged Colson agreement has your approval the matter will be dropped. If it does

Coal Miners' Leaders Urge National Strike

LONDON (UPI) — Coal miners' leaders called on Thursday for a nationwide strike, setting the scene for one of the most serious confrontations between organized labor and the government in nearly half a century.

The move came as the government announced the biggest monthly increase in unemployment in 30 years. The bulk of the 2.29 million were workless as a result of the three-day work week imposed by the government on nonessential industries to conserve fuel supplies.

The call for a coal strike came after a meeting of the 27-man executive of the National Union of Mineworkers.

The meeting rejected a last-minute plea from Prime Minister Edward Heath calling for an end to the overtime and weekend working ban which has cut coal production by more than 30 per cent.

$180 Million More For Education Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon told Congress Thursday he will request an additional $180 million for federal aid to elementary and secondary education next school year, if certain conditions are met.

In a special education message preceding submission of the fiscal year 1975 budget, the President also proposed the first "forward funding" of education aid to let school districts know a year in advance how much they can expect to receive.

Nixon said that as soon as he receives "acceptable authorizing legislation," he is prepared to ask for a $2.85 billion supplemental appropriation this spring to be spent during the 1974-75 school year.

"If the Congress acts on this request swiftly," he said, "those who run our elementary and secondary schools as well as vocational and adult education programs would for the first time know how much federal money they would have before the school year begins, not several months after the year has begun.

"School districts across the nation will begin putting their annual budgets together next month, but unless we soon enact reforms they will not know how much their federal funds will be until late fall," Nixon said.

The presidential message dealt in broad terms with the whole education spectrum, ranging from a promise for more operating funds for pre-school Head Start to renewed emphasis on college student aid problems.

Budgetary details will be submitted Feb. 4.

Nixon repeated his call to Congress to consolidate more than 30 categorical aid programs in the expiring Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) into a form of special revenue sharing.

Nixon again proposed phasing out a major portion of the federal impact-aid program, highly popular with congressmen because it extends into almost every congressional district in the nation.

The message proposed a two-year phase-out of the aid, which is based on children whose parents work on but do not live on federal property, accompanied by the assurance that no school district would lose more than 5 per cent of its total operating budget the first year.

The message also proposed full funding at $1.3 billion for the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant Program for needy college students, which the President said would raise the average grant to $805 from the present $260 a year.

Nixon said he will send Congress a proposal for a new project grant program to aid school districts undergoing voluntary or court-ordered desegregation.

Mobil, Texaco, Shell Have Big Profit Hikes

NEW YORK (AP) — Three of the nation's largest oil companies reported on Thursday large profit increases in 1973, as debate continued over the industry's earnings in the midst of rising prices and shortages.

Mobil Oil Co., the nation's second largest oil company, reported a 47 per cent profit increase in 1973 compared to 1972, while Texaco, the industry's third largest, announced a 5 per cent gain, and Shell, seventh in size, said its profits were up by 28 per cent.

Earlier this week, Exxon Corp., the nation's biggest oil company, reported a 59 per cent increase while Cities Service and Union Oil of California announced gains of almost 50 per cent.

Two of the international firms, Mobil and Texaco, reported increases of 68 and 70 per cent in the fourth quarter of last year, when the Arab oil embargo went into effect and world oil prices skyrocketed. Shell, whose activities are concentrated in the United States, reported a dropoff in profits for the same period. Price increases of petroleum products are limited to a pass-through of costs under government controls in this country.

Exxon, which also has major international operations, reported earlier that its fourth-quarter profit increases were virtually identical to its gain for the year as a whole.

Meanwhile, J.K. Jamieson, chairman of Exxon, on Thursday denied charges by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., that his company's reduction of oil supplies to the U.S. military constituted a disloyal act.

Jamieson said Exxon had been prohibited from making those deliveries by the Saudi Arabian embargo imposed against the United States in late October, and its position was promptly reported to the Department of Defense.

In Houston, Z.D. Bonner, the president of Gulf Oil Co., said the Senate subcommittee headed by Jackson, which is investigating the oil industry and its profits, "is not the type of forum to get at the truth" about the energy crisis.

"We've got politics mixed into this and it shouldn't be there," he said.

Ashland Oil, the 16th largest in the industry, reported Thursday that profits for the last quarter of 1973 were $34.4 million, slightly more than 50 per cent above the $22.6 million it earned for the same quarter a year ago. Ashland operates on a fiscal year that ends Sept. 30.

Mobil said its profits last year were $842.8 million compared with $574.2 million in 1972. Texaco said its 1973 income was $1.29 billion compared to $889.04 million. Shell reported 1973 profits of $332.7 million, compared to $260.5 million the previous year.

Both Mobil and Texaco said their profit gains primarily were from foreign markets. Shell, a domestically-based firm with no foreign earnings, showed lower profit gains than the other two firms. But its earnings increase was considerably higher than the domestic profit increases reported by Mobil and Texaco.

However, Shell said that during the last three months of 1973, a time of greatest oil price increases and shortages, its earnings were $79.4 million, 2 per cent less than the same period in 1972.

Texaco reported a 70 per cent gain during the last three months of 1973 with profits of $453.49 million, while Mobil said its profits for the same period were $271.6 million, about a 68 per cent increase.

Shell, without foreign operations, said it was adversely

Jackson Promises Relentless Probe

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Thursday the oil companies had not cooperated with him and he intends to pursue his investigation of the energy crisis until the oil executives are "there in their birthday suits."

Jackson also said he will introduce legislation next week to require federal licensing for all major oil companies, with public directors appointed to serve on the big firms.

"I know one thing," Jackson told a meeting of the Consumer Federation of America, "we're not going to knuckle under to any tin-horn colonel or sheik over in the Middle East."

Jackson said he was amazed at the alleged lapses of memory some oil executives displayed during his hearings this week when asked about corporate profits.

asked about corporate profits.

"They just won't come clean and lay the case out on the table," Jackson said. "But before we get through these hearings, they're going to be there in their birthday suits."

Jackson said his legislation to be introduced next week would provide that any big oil company doing business in the United States would have to get a federal charter, and disclose information on its inventories, pricing and other business practices to secure the charter. The legislation also would create a federal regulatory commission to issue the charters and appoint public directors to serve on their boards.

"Consumer interests would, under my proposal, be represented on the boards of every major oil company."

Wheat Imports Prospect Is Product Of Diplomacy

By DON McLEOD

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prospect of the United States, the world's leading wheat exporter, having to import wheat springs from the delicate diplomacy of detente and the straining U.S. economy.

The outlook for American millers grinding extra Canadian wheat this spring was heightened Thursday when the U.S. Tariff Commission recommended that President Nixon suspend wheat import quotas until June 30.

A interim commission report said Nixon could take the action without adversely affecting government wheat programs and the amount of wheat products processed in this country.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carroll G. Brunthaver conceded Wednesday that U.S. wheat reserves are crimped more than had been anticipated and the administration already was considering opening up imports from Canada so American tables won't run short of bread.

A Senate Agriculture subcommittee has voted to hold hearings on U.S. wheat supply and demand.

The United States is running short of grain after an 18-month spree of supersalesmanship which has seen this country selling its farm products abroad in unprecedented volume.

The Nixon administration has pursued a program of pushing food exports as part of its worldwide peace and goodwill initiatives and as the best bet for helping the U.S. position in a shaky world economy.

The only way to assure domestic supplies without turning to Canadian imports in a crunch would be to stop shipping our own wheat overseas. And the U.S. government feels it can't do that, even at the risk of running short at home, because:

—The reaction from America's agricultural customers abroad would be immediate and angry at a time when international tensions already are straining near the breaking point.

—The American economy couldn't stand the shock of losing needed markets in the short run and possibly steady customers in the long run.

—Unlike most other wheat exporting nations, all U.S. exports are handled by private traders. The government has no way of controlling their sales except by slapping on export quotas.

The lure of American food before a hungry world has become a key to President Nixon's diplomatic initiatives, and one too valuable to be jeopardized by cutting off customers now, the administration feels.

Withholding wheat to countries dependent on U.S. supplies would have an impact akin to the Arab curtailment of oil shipments during the current Middle East crisis, government officials fear.

Food Basket Cost Leaps 23.3%

Washington (UPI) — The average annual cost of a typical American family's food basket rose in December to a near-record $1,650, or 23.3% higher than it was one year earlier, the Agriculture Department reported Thursday.

Recent boosts in the price of wheat, potatoes and beef cattle are almost certain to push the market basket costs to new heights in January, officials said. The present record of $1,653 was set in August.

For all of 1973, the cost of domestically produced foods for an average household of 3.2 persons was $1,537. Officials said this was a gain of $226 or 17.2% over 1972, the sharpest rise in a quarter-century.

The department attributed December's 1% increase over the previous month to rising farm prices and the margins claimed by wholesalers, processors and other middlemen before the foods reach retail grocery shelves.

Farm prices rose 1.3% last month, mainly because of increases for wheat, eggs, milk and oilseeds. The middleman's margin, steadily widening since September, rose another 0.8%.

Compared with August figures, the middleman's $940 share of the total market basket cost in December was 15% higher than last August, while the $710 in farm prices was about 15% below August.

Over the entire year, however, the December farm returns were 28.9% above a year earlier, compared with a 19.5% increase in the middleman's margin over the same period.

Price Of Baling Wire May Rise

Washington (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has asked the Cost of Living Council to let the price of baling wire rise so that manufacturers will be encouraged to boost production in time for the 1974 haying season.

With several Senate committees becoming involved in various aspects of the energy situation, Mansfield announced creation of a special panel to study all matters involving energy, the environment and natural resources.

The price of crude oil in November 1973 was $4.25 a barrel for so-called "old" oil controlled by the Cost of Living Council and approximately $5.75 a barrel for so-called "new" or decontrolled oil. Old oil currently is selling for $5.25 a barrel while decontrolled crude prices have risen to an average of $10.35 per barrel.

Baling wire and twine ties were in short supply last year, and experts say the crunch will be worse in 1974 unless domestic producers are encouraged to turn out more.

About 90% of the nation's hay crop is baled. And about four-fifths of that is twine-tied, representing mostly hay that is fed to livestock on farms and ranches where it is produced.

But wire ties are need for bales shipped long distances, and the short supply has created many problems and higher costs.

DAs Begin Oil Probe

By The New York Times

New York — The National District Attorneys Association has begun a broad investigation of possible economic crimes of oil companies in the fuel crisis.

It is the first time the 5,000-member organization has undertaken a unified inquiry.

An Energy Crisis Committee, which met earlier this week in the office of Brooklyn District Atty. Eugene Gold, is preparing a report within 30 days on possible instances of price-fixing among oil companies.

Fuel oil and gasoline prices will be cited, as well as possible conspiracies in bidding on local government contracts that might have forced communities to pay higher fuel prices.

The investigation will be carried out initially by the district attorneys of six communities — Brooklyn, Los Angeles, Denver, Flint, Mich., Norman, Okla., and Burlington, VT.

However, Robert F. Leonard, the filing prosecuting Attorney, said the investigation had been started because "there is a feeling in this country" that the federal government "might not have been doing as much as it could be."

Some segments of the public, Leonard said, feel that the "close association" between oil interests and the government might impair the federal government's "abilities to make proper judgments."

Crude Price Rollback Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats expressed strong support Thursday for a proposal to roll back the price of domestic crude oil.

The support was voiced at a closed party caucus, senators reported later. However, action on the matter was delayed by the caucus pending hearings by the Senate Finance Committee.

Meanwhile, the Democrats moved to force action next week on the emergency energy bill. It was blocked before Christmas by Republicans and oil-state senators opposing a provision aimed at limiting windfall profits by oil companies.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield filed a cloture petition. That means the Senate will vote Monday on the move to limit debate and bring the measure to a vote.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., the floor manager, predicted the measure will be passed "sometime next week."

Among other things, the measure would give President Nixon authority to order gasoline rationing.

The energy question dominated the first Democratic caucus of the new congressional session. Debate focused on a resolution by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., for a rollback to November 1973 prices.

Mondale said he will introduce his proposal as a bill. Jackson announced a similar measure.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Finance Com-

Price Hikes To Offset Higher Energy Costs OK'd

Washington (UPI) — The Cost of Living Council (CLC) ruled Thursday that hospitals, nursing homes, and other long-term care facilities could boost their prices to offset the higher energy costs.

The special cost price relief is an interim measure to make it easier for hospitals to adjust to a new price control system set up specifically for the health industry and is not a precedent for other sectors of the economy, the CLC said.

The rule will make it easier for health care facilities to absorb the rising cost of operating heating, cooling, lighting and power equipment critical for health care.

The action means health facilities may increase the price of their services to reflect either the differences between actual energy costs in 1974 over 1973 or the increase in the average energy costs between 1974 and 1973 multiplied by 85% of energy consumed in 1973, whichever is less.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Lincoln Electric System Administrator Walter Canney may prove the merit of his case for dropping the operating agreement the city utility has with Nebraska Public Power District but he should definitely be asked by the City Council for some relative facts. Canney has said that since LES is now doing all its own accounting, the remaining four years of the contract with NPPD is of no value.

Canney is talking about $500,000 in fees over those four years, which he says can be saved the electric rate payers of the city. Once again, the situation looks inviting on the surface but how has such a thing come about?

Suppose you hire a contractor to pour a driveway for your home and a few days later go out and pour the driveway yourself. When the contractor shows up with a load of concrete, you inform him that you have already done the job yourself and, therefore, do not need his services.

Do you think the contractor would walk away with a shrug of the shoulders? Not very likely. More likely, he would sue you for the amount of the contract and, undoubtedly, would collect in full from you.

Suppose you are a businessman and you hire an independent accounting firm to do your bookkeeping rather than establishing such a department of your own. You contract with the firm on a five-year basis. You then go out and proceed to hire accountants whom you put on your payroll to do the very thing you have just purchased elsewhere.

Two things would be obvious. One, you would be some kind of knuckle-head and, two, you would be in for a rude shock. The shock would be the discovery that you had to pay for the accounting services for which you had legally contracted, despite the fact that you no longer needed that service.

It appears that Canney has done this with LES. Having a contract for services with NPPD, Canney has proceeded to build his own staff to perform the very same services. He now appears to have himself in the position of paying twice for the same thing — once to NPPD and once to his own staff.

If this is what he has done, he has performed an act of serious irresponsibility. Without a question, the mayor and City Council should waste no time in gathering all the facts on this situation.

Rather than saving the people of Lincoln half a million dollars, Canney may saddle them with an additional and totally unnecessary half-a-million-dollar expense. We fail to see how it could be otherwise if NPPD insists upon its contract rights, which it might well be expected to do.

What Canney seems to be presenting as an efficiency in his operation has all the earmarks of what is commonly known in legal circles as breach of contract. Does he expect NPPD to be a nice guy and simply let LES do what it wants?

If he does, he is likely mistaken. NPPD would be an idiot under such circumstances.

Whether the deal Canney now wants for LES is better than what it has is not even relevant. When the present arrangement with NPPD was made, it was considered to be the advisable thing to do.

Time and circumstances may have changed that but the new conditions are a matter for consideration at the time of the expiration of the contract in 1977, not a matter to be unilaterally decided in defiance of legal and ethical restraints.

Additionally, the responsibility rests upon Canney to prove that, even in 1977, he can perform the services involved more cheaply than they can be done through a contract with NPPD. And even if he can prove this, he is negligent in proceeding on his own without, to our knowledge, any approval from his own advisory board or the mayor and City Council.

LES is, after all, a publicly rather than privately owned utility.

Lenin Controversial Figure Half Century After Death

WASHINGTON — So pervasive is the legacy of some pivotal figures in history that their individual deeds resist critical scrutiny. To question them is to question the legitimacy of prevailing authority. That is precisely what Alexander Solzhenitsyn has done in "The Gulag Archipelago," his new book on the Soviet prison-camp system. Solzhenitsyn outraged Kremlin leaders by reminding them that Lenin was not only the helmsman of the Bolshevik Revolution but also the father of the Soviet police state.

This is not to say that Solzhenitsyn's indictment came as a revelation to high Soviet leaders or Western scholars. "Lenin's political police perfected a system of internal espionage that blanketed Russia with a network of agents far more efficient than the Czarist Okhrana," wrote biographer David Shub. "Ironclad censorship imposed complete silence on all criticism of Lenin's policies. The press, radio, cinema, and theater became, for the first time in history, an exclusive instrument of state propaganda."

Many surviving Old Bolsheviks no doubt remember the Kronstadt rebellion of February, 1921. Sailors at the Kronstadt fortress near Petrograd (now Leningrad) mutinied in behalf of the peasants. Under the direction of Leon Trotsky, Lenin's deputy, the revolt was ruthlessly crushed. Those not killed in the assault were executed or exiled.

Solzhenitsyn is by no means the first great Russian writer to complain of the early Bolsheviks' excesses. After observing the behavior of Lenin and his followers during the Russian Civil War, Maxim Gorky said: "Whatever the ideas by which men pretend to be guided, in practice they all behave like animals."

Lenin enjoyed no peace during his life, so he hardly would be surprised to learn that he remains a figure of controversy after death. Had he written an autobiography, "1,000 Crises" would have been a suitable title. From the time of his older brother's execution in 1887 to his own death on Jan. 24, 1924, political intrigue consumed his life.

But if Lenin wasted little pity and less sentiment on others, he wasted none on himself. He had no illusions. "One does not enter the realm of revolution," he once remarked, "with white kid gloves and on a polished floor." Lenin abolished the Czarist secret police, only to replace it with his own Cheka.

To a sympathizer like the late Edmund Wilson, Lenin's course as head of the new Soviet state was understandable. Lenin "gravitated into the role of dictator," Wilson argued, "because the social physics of Russia made it inevitable that he should do so."

Even now, a half century after his death, Lenin remains an enigma. He despised intellectuals although he himself was one. A socialist, he nonetheless adopted the New Economic Policy, which permitted a certain amount of free enterprise. Lenin himself was aware of his contradictory nature, as evidenced by his remark made after World War I: "We take with one hand what we give with another."

Riddle Of The Sphinx: Who Speaks Arabic In The Morning, Hebrew In The Afternoon, Peace In The Evening?

Corrections Administrator Wanted

Gov. Exon late Thursday afternoon withdrew his ill-advised appointment of Beatrice Police Chief Merl Hesser as director of the Department of Corrections, doing so at Hesser's request. Exon then appointed Don Best, superintendent of the Youth Development Center at Geneva, as acting director until a permanent replacement for Victor Walker, who resigned, can be found.

This interim appointment should give the governor ample opportunity to reflect upon the qualifications a permanent director should possess.

Hesser has built an admirable record in law enforcement. But his appointment met with opposition within the Legislature — particularly within the Judiciary Committee, which has been the prime force behind the state's new penal reform program — because Hesser in many minds did not pass the test of the statute enacted last year which states that the director of correctional services shall have "a minimum of ten years of correctional administrative work."

It is unfortunate that the governor so loosely interpreted the intent of the law as to subject an otherwise qualified law officer to possible rejection by the Legislature and to place himself on the brink of a needless appointment confrontation with the Legislature for which only he would have been to blame.

The question at issue, lies behind Exon's original decision to appoint a policeman to fill the job. At this juncture, when the state is advancing its penal system beyond the primitive state of criminal warehousing, there is a philosophic decision to make.

Should the state put a policeman in charge of rehabilitation programs? We think not. Those two areas of the criminal justice system are distinctly separate, with differing motivations, outlooks and responsibilities to society. What is needed is not a policeman with some experience in corrections, but a corrections man, "per se," in Hesser's words.

We think that the governor, upon reflection, can come up with a candidate who is amply qualified for the job, one who complies with the demonstrated intent of the Legislature to pursue an ambitious penal reform program which calls for an experienced corrections administrator to implement it.

Increased Truck Weights

Two bills now before the Legislature would authorize trucks to carry 15% more than current maximum weight limits on specified Nebraska highways under specified conditions.

The bills are touted as energy conservation measures which will enable needed goods to be delivered during the fuel shortage, which probably contributes to the fact that no opposition was recorded against the bills during hearings held Wednesday by the Public Works Committee.

One immediate reaction would be to label the proposals as attempts by special interests to take advantage of the fuel shortage to get what they want — which in this case is increased truck weights.

But the legislation should be considered on its merits.

There are alleged safeguards written into both bills. One would provide for a permit system for specific vehicles approved by the Department of Roads to carry additional weight on specified roads, but only during certain periods; the other authorizes the state engineer to approve increased weight limits on specified roads for specified periods of time. Both would require the roads department to make a determination that conditions were such that additional weights would not result in damage to highway surfaces.

The Department of Roads has described its position on the bills as "neutral."

But we think the department or someone with knowledge should be called upon to satisfactorily answer some questions. Such as, would increased weights during these "specific" periods likely cause additional damage to roadbeds? Put another way, are the safeguards adequate? If there is no damage factor, why haven't the weight limits been increased by 15% long before now? Is the haulers' need to increase weight limits so great that all the highway users of Nebraska should be called upon to ante up for possible increased maintenance and construction costs?

Direct answers to such questions are needed before increased truck weight bills are allowed to sail through the Legislature without opposition, under the flag of energy conservation.

ANTHONY LEWIS

A Question Of Trust

BOSTON — Forty years ago a Senate investigating committee subpoenaed documents from William P. MacCracken Jr., a Washington lawyer. He said they were protected by the lawyer-client privilege. While that claim was pending, one of his clients — without MacCracken's knowledge — got into his files, removed material and destroyed it.

MacCracken told the committee that he was not responsible. But the chairman, Sen. Hugo Black of Alabama, told him: "You said upon your honor as a lawyer . . . that this committee could rest assured the files were there and would remain there." The Senate found MacCracken in contempt. The Supreme Court, in an opinion by Justice Brandeis, unanimously rejected a constitutional argument he made. He served 10 days in the District of Columbia jail.

The tale of MacCracken has a certain significance today. It is not a precedent controlling all other cases of missing evidence; contempt or obstruction of justice will always depend on the particular facts. What the story does convey is an attitude toward public responsibility — the obligation of a lawyer or really any public person to the process of law.

The theme of public duty is sounded in a different context in some more recent Supreme Court cases. In 1968 the court said that New York policemen could not be forced to waive their privilege against self-incrimination in a criminal proceeding, but they could be fired if they refused to answer direct questions about their duties. The reason was that a policeman "is a trustee of the public interest." The same was said of sanitation men.

The justices treated the public employee as a fiduciary, in dictionary terms a person to whom property or power is entrusted for the benefit of another. The other in this instance is the public, and it is entitled to have an accounting from those acting in its name.

Those cases, though hardly familiar, express what most Americans accept as honorable standards of public conduct in a democracy. A perception that President Nixon has failed those tests underlies Americans' deeply cynical attitude toward him today.

There can hardly ever have been a public figure so given to avoiding personal responsibility. There was an amazing example the other day, in connection with indications that the authorities are increasingly doubtful about Nixon's tax returns. His press spokesman, asked about that, said the President had ordered his own investigation of the returns. An investigation! As if the matter were someone else's responsibility and he could hold it at arm's length and investigate it.

The same attitude applies to the wiped-out White House tapes. It must be the fault of Rose Mary Woods, or some devil, not of the man who said last July 23 that the tapes would remain "under my sole personal control."

And so on through the litany of Watergate. Every burglary, every cover-up, every wiretap, every obstruction of justice committed, and in many cases admitted by high personal aides of this President, was not his responsibility.

The picture of an innocent president floating on a sea of crime is fundamentally unconvincing. That, not any specific knowledge, accounts for the remarkable poll results showing that 79% of those asked believe Nixon guilty of one or more crimes connected with Watergate. The public is sensible enough to think that the man in whom it placed its highest trust is responsible for the fouling of that trust.

Thinking of that office as a trust also clarifies the obligation of the President to provide information to the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry. Once serious evidence of wrong-doing is raised against the

MILAN WALL

Czarist Glories

The glory that was Russia . . . is still there: protected, preserved, restored, by a people who've officially rejected what it stood for.

That was, perhaps, the most surprising thing about our brief visit to the Soviet Union. The Russians have taken great pains to protect the grand leftovers of the czarist past.

Everywhere we went, we were treated to tours of palaces, churches, museums, each full to the brim with the artwork that was a product of a time when the rich were very rich, the poor very poor.

Icons, crown jewels, silver china, paintings, royal coaches and armor are in abundance, in many cases housed in buildings which are great works of art themselves.

Guides tell of their history: who made what for whom and why. There is little mention of the fact that these were products of a time when many people were virtually enslaved.

One guide, as we toured the Kremlin, said many people believe Ivan the Terrible was the only cruel czar; not true, she said, others had their cruel traits too.

But that was about the only mention of such a theme.

The same guide also mentioned, as we viewed the jewel-bedecked crowns that once graced the locks of Peter the Great, that the jewels were protected "even during the revolution."

We wandered past more products of the czarist past, as other guides led groups of Russians, Germans and others through the buildings.

In one of them, a church in the Kremlin, we walked past 12th and 14th Century icons, hanging virtually unguarded on the walls.

Although Moscow is by far the older of the two cities, we found the sense of history a conscious feeling in Leningrad.

The port city, founded just a few years into the 18th Century, was the home of the czars when Peter and Catherine began turning Russian heads to the West.

And it's there, in Palace Square, that Bloody Sunday shook the last of the czars in 1905 and in the same square that Lenin and his followers stormed the Winter Palace in 1917 to begin the Soviet revolution.

Monuments to many of Russia's greatest writers, poets and composers dot the city, and the tours take visitors past buildings where those artists studied, lived, died.

Venetian-like canals run from the Neva River into Leningrad, and parks and courtyards abound. It must be a beautiful city in the spring and summer; it was beautiful in the winter.

In Leningrad we saw more evidence of the restoration that goes on continually in both cities, as the Russians attempt to preserve the buildings that beautify these settings.

Most of the historic buildings in the port city are painted, and the 90% humidity factor demands exterior work every two years.

But the restoration goes far beyond the mere painting of walls. Restoring is a profession, which combines studied knowledge of history, as well as of the crafts and materials used in the original construction.

When buildings are restored, every attempt is made to replicate the original materials: type of wood, pigment for paint, gold for the many gilt designs.

Our guide told us the restoration is slowed by lack of money: Leningrad's city budget must pay the bill for all the work done there.

When we asked about the restorers, she described them as "mummies" and "zombies" who lock themselves away in the institutes, studying intricacies of the past.

But those zombies do some impressive work.

In Paul's summer palace, 30 miles from Leningrad, we saw the handiwork of restoration; photos in the rooms showed us how they had looked after the 900 days of World War II.

The city was once ringed with such palaces, but Hitler's forces took care of that, and many were left in rubble that could never be reconstructed.

Still the work of restoration was begun before the destruction; the palaces were evacuated and first went the archives so the records would be intact.

We became convinced, after a time, that all of the Russian's construction-oriented craftsmanship goes into restoration, since most new buildings were unimpressive.

Someone said we'd find that all buildings, whether new or old, would look as if they'd been standing at least 30 years.

We passed one building under construction, and saw sloppy brickwork with mortar that didn't fill all the spaces.

Certainly the Russians must have lost many of their workers in the war, when millions died. Perhaps there's less pride in work. Maybe it's because so many buildings must go up so rapidly.

But in the restoration, the fine work is there to maintain for the modern Russia and her guests a glimpse into the Russia of another age.

1930's Memories

Lincoln, Neb.
Although I am not a farmer, I have read Farm Editor Dominick Costello's articles in The Star and enjoyed them very much.

I moved to Nebraska Jan. 1, 1929, and since then have seen many changes on the farms. Now that the energy crisis has caused a shortage of gasoline, diesel, propane and fuel oil, I remember the days in the early 1930's when they asked the city folks who burned coal in the winter to burn wheat and corn on the cob along with their coal. They suggested that some rocks and ashes be put on the grates and one shovel each of coal, wheat and corn be banked in the furnace or heating stove. The grain at that time sold for 25 cents per bushel.

The farmers then did not need to purchase much food except

Back Cipriano

Lincoln, Neb.
At all of Nebraska's home basketball games this year, there have been numerous chants of "Fire Cip," "Sit Down, Cip," and boos when subs have been made. Most of these come from the student section.

Being a student myself, I wish these people would be a little more appreciative. Coach Cipriano is working with a young group of players, mostly freshmen and sophomores. And when they played Kansas State, they played a much older and experienced ball club. Nebraska players have nothing to be ashamed of; they gave 100%.

How could any individual be expected to take a young team such as Nebraska has this year and expect them to win the Big Eight? Or even finish in the upper half? The odds wouldn't be very high.

Thoughtless Man

Lincoln, Neb.
The headline in the Jan. 22 Star, "Lynx Sighted In Nebraska," excited me enough to read the article in the sports section.

What utter despair to find out that the third cat ever to be sighted in Nebraska in at least 14 years no longer exists, thanks to our trigger-happy hunters.

Even if Mr. Cramer thought it was a bob-cat, what was the justification in the killing? Is there a law providing a bounty for bob-cats in our state? Can anyone shoot wild animals here in Nebraska with no legal recourse?

Was Mr. Cramer so concerned over his catch that he couldn't spare a few fish to an obviously hungry animal? From the report, the cat seemed to have been interested only in food. This has been a fierce winter for our wild animal population.

Apparently the cat did not attack the men to cause any real danger to anyone. Wouldn't it have been wiser to report the sighting first, marveled at the animal from a distance and allowed one of earth's creatures a chance at life?

Another incident comes to mind of an armadillo making its way as far north as Benkelman several years back. It was killed because it was not familiar to our area.

What wasteful and thoughtless creatures men are in every way.
F. AUGUSTINE

Lincoln, Neb.
I agree with the late Hal Brown when in one of his columns he said, give Coach Cipriano a few years with this group of players and if still we don't have a satisfying season, then perhaps other alternatives should be made.

Why not back our team and coach as we do in football instead of being critical? I'm sure fans couldn't do half the job as Joe and his assistants are doing.
ROGER McNEIL

Ring The Bells
Lincoln, Neb.
As a single woman I am astounded at the totally dramatic approach the news media have taken on the "first anniversary of the landmark U.S. Supreme Court decision on abortion" (from an article in The Lincoln Star Jan. 23). Why, in this day and age of increased concern over the economic future of our country as well as the entire world are people still worrying about and/or opposed to my individual right as a woman to bring or not to bring another human being into this world?

Instead of ringing church bells in tribute to lives lost in abortion, why not ring the bells in memory of children's lives lost through disease or total abandonment, or even better, ring them for the living youth imprisoned or institutionalized because of neglect?

Poll: Nixon Finance Disclosures Doubted

By LOUIS HARRIS

By 56-28%, a majority of the American people agrees with the charge that "President Nixon has not been honest about the financing of his houses in San Clemente and Key Biscayne." In addition, the President's decision to release a full financial disclosure of his income and taxes appears to have raised more doubts than to have calmed doubts about his personal financial dealings.

All in all, by 66-25%, the American people give Nixon negative marks on his publication of his personal finances. Significantly, Republicans are critical of the President on his tax revelations by 52-38%, while those voters who cast their ballots for him in the 1972 presidential election are also critical by 54-38%.

Along with serious doubts about President Nixon's integrity in handling the disputed Watergate tapes, as reported earlier this week in the Harris Survey, his actions in trying to explain his personal financial dealings now appear to have put him in worse trouble than ever with the American people. The number who now feel Nixon is a "man of high integrity" has slipped to an all-time low of 37% of the public.

Louis Harris
Trouble
Worsens

The root of the doubts and suspicions about the President's personal finances stems from the way in which he bought his houses in Key Biscayne and San Clemente and in the sales of some of the land he made in his California residence. The public was asked directly about this: "Do you feel President Nixon has been honest or not about the financing of his houses in San Clemente and Key Biscayne?"

HAS NIXON BEEN HONEST ABOUT FINANCING HIS HOUSES?

Been Honest 26%
Not been honest 56%
Not sure 18%

Thus, the financial disclosures by the President have cast even longer shadows on his integrity. Richard Nixon is now in deep trouble on his credibility with the American people, and his own decision to release his financial statements and taxes has made things worse rather than better for him.

Measure Requiring Tests In Traffic Deaths OKd

By United Press International
The Legislature voted 32-8 Thursday to provide a means of determining if drugs or alcohol might have been the cause of traffic accidents in which one or more persons lost their lives.

The vote was recorded on the final passage of LB66, introduced by Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln at the request of the State Motor Vehicles Department.

The bill would require, if signed by the governor, that a coroner's report be filed with the Motor Vehicles Department on any person who died as a result of an accident.

If the person killed was the driver, and he died within four hours of the accident, the coroner would be required to perform tests on the body to determine the presence of alcohol or drugs.

In addition, if the driver wasn't the one killed then he would be asked to submit to tests. The same would be true of any pedestrian involved in an accident.

However, according to the measure, the results of the tests would not be disclosed.

"Such information shall be used only for statistical purposes which do not reveal the identity of the deceased" or "surviving drivers or surviving pedestrians."

Voting against adoption of the measure were Sens. Clark, Dickinson, Lewis, R., Proud, Rasmussen, Skarda, Snyder and Stromer.

Exon Cuts, Signs Tuition Payment Bill

Gov. J. James Exon advised the Legislature Thursday he had signed a bill into law but reduced its appropriation by $246,000.

The bill, LB43a provided $406,875 for payment of the tuition of wards of the court when they attend school in districts other than their own.

"We have established that over a quarter of a million dollars was over-appropriated and can be saved in appropriations and still properly fund the measure for the period prescribed," Exon said in a message to the Unicameral.

He again suggested that non-emergency funding bills be held back "until after your passage of the mainline budget bill so that we might all have a better understanding of total appropriations as we consider spending measures."

Senators Reject $3 For State Office Building

Members of the Legislature Thursday turned down a $3 contribution for the state office building and Legislature.

Mary C. Parks of 2752 Saratoga St. in Omaha sent a $3 money order to Clerk of the Legislature Vince Brown and he asked the lawmakers what he should do with it.

Unicameral Speaker Richard Proud of Omaha asked how much it would cost to accept the gift, and when there was no reply, he moved that the senators accept it.

Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh, presiding officer in the Legislature, ruled 25 votes were required for acceptance, two more than the Proud motion received. Eleven senators voted against.

After Brown inquired what he should do with the check, Proud suggested returning it to the lady with an expression of gratitude.

Partisan Unicam Plan Forwarded

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Legislation which would submit the question of a partisan Legislature to a vote of the people next November was forwarded to the floor of the Unicameral Thursday for full debate.

The bill, LB649, Sen. Gerald Stromer's third effort to amend the state constitution to transform the Unicameral into a partisan body, was advanced on a 4-1 vote of the Constitutional Revision and Recreation Committee.

Sens. Gary Anderson of Axtell, Fred Carstens of Beatrice, Ralph Kelly of Grand Island and Duke Snyder of Omaha voted for advancement.

Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton opposed the motion.

Backed By Parties
Spokesmen for both major political parties endorsed the bill — as did Lincoln businessman Bill Harris, who has pledged to oppose the issue in the general election campaign if it reaches the November ballot.

Harris said a vote on the issue would allow the people to call a halt to the present trend toward partisanship in the Legislature "before it becomes a fact."

At a time when people are disturbed by the recent excesses of partisanship on the national level, Harris said, this would be "an excellent year to test the principle of non-partisanship" in Nebraska.

The Unicameral has been non-partisan since its inception and was so structured by a vote of the people on the issue of a one-house legislature in 1934.

Stromer, a Republican congressional candidate, carried to the hearing endorsement of the bill from Democratic State Chairman Dick White.

Dan Burleigh of Lincoln presented the endorsement of the Republican Party.

A partisan legislature would better develop the issues for the voters, reduce the influence of lobbyists, strengthen the political parties and improve the organization and efficiency of the Unicameral, Young Democratic State Chairman David Newell said.

Several supporters of the bill suggested that the Legislature is already turning sharply toward a partisan body, especially this year when a number of its members are seeking partisan office.

Former Legislative Clerk Hugo Srb stoutly defended the non-partisan structure.

No 'Political Games'
"Senators are representatives of the people, not the parties," Harris said. "And people don't want political games to be played with their money or with their future."

Another proposed constitutional amendment, LB686, which would allow the Legislature to provide for reimbursement of senators' expenses when they are performing legislative duties, was locked in the committee.

A motion to advance the bill, LB686, sponsored by the Legislative Council's executive board, failed on a 3-3 tie vote.

Burbach urged the committee not to propose such a compensation measure during the same year that voters will be asked to increase legislative salaries from $400 to $675 a month. The latter measure will be on the May primary ballot.

Voting to advance LB686 were Anderson, Carstens and Sen. George Syas of Omaha. Voting with Burbach in opposition were Kelly and Snyder.

Marsh's Vote For Adjourning

The Legislature decided to adjourn Thursday until Tuesday to give committees a chance to move bills to the floor.

The vote on adjournment was tied 21-21 when Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh cast his first vote of the session to adjourn.

Legislative Bills Introduced

By The Associated Press

Bills introduced in the Legislature Thursday:

LB990 (Public Works and Agriculture Committee) — Requires permits for the construction of wells, and provides when permits shall not be issued.

LB991 (Judiciary) — Creates a cash fund for the Kearney Youth Development Center for operation of service station.

LB992 (Judiciary) — Lowers the age for release from the Kearney Youth Development Center from 21 to 19.

LB993 (Judiciary) — Provides for transfer of building on the Lincoln Regional Center campus from the Department of Correctional Services to the Department of Public Institutions.

Bill To Curtail Irrigation Wells Is Introduced

The Legislature voted Thursday to allow a bill to be introduced that would limit drilling of irrigation wells in some areas.

The bill would allow the Natural Resource Commission to determine when the underground water supply of an area was critically low. Then the commission could either accept or reject a permit for a new irrigation well.

Domestic wells would not be affected.

Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice said that there would be a water crisis similar to the energy crisis in 5 to 10 years if some action was not taken.

Sen. Richard Lewis of Holbrook said that the most critical areas of the state now were in Holt, Scotts Bluff, Banner, Perkins and Chase Counties.

Sunday Bingo Play Nets No Opposition

By The Associated Press
No one spoke in opposition Thursday at a public hearing on a legislative bill that would allow bingo playing on Sunday. No action was taken on the bill.

The proposal, LB818, would also raise the amount of money that a player could spend on one game, the amount that could be paid in prizes and the amount that could be taken per day in gross receipts.

The Miscellaneous Subjects Committee also heard testimony on a bill proposing a state electrical act that would require licensing of electrical contractors and inspection of electrical work.

A similar bill was narrowly defeated last year, but sponsor Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue said that he had worked out compromises to the satisfaction of most of the opponents of the bill. A letter to Lewis from the Nebraska Farm Bureau said that group was still in total opposition to the bill. The bill was held in committee.

The committee sent a bill to the floor that would require that all buildings being remodeled meet the safety standards of new buildings.

Tax Exemption For Air Controls Moves

By United Press International
The Legislature's Agriculture Committee Thursday advanced to the floor a bill to grant an exemption from the sales tax for air pollution control equipment purchased by industries, including public power districts.

The committee, however, indicated even though it advanced the bill, LB640, it wasn't necessarily in favor of the whole idea.

"I feel this is important and maybe it should have an airing on the floor even though I'm not necessarily for it," said Sen. Walter Epke of York, who made the motion to advance.

During the hearing, Delbert Dirrim of Omaha, attorney for the Omaha Public Power District, was asked if OPDD had protested federal air pollution control requirements.

He said there had been protests, but Sen. Loren Schmit of Bellwood said during the executive session "I don't think they've protested enough."

"There is a lot of unnecessary money being spent," Schmit

Truck Weight Limit Bill Goes To Floor

By The Associated Press
A bill which would permit trucks to carry 15% additional weight on certain roads between Nov. 1 and April 1 annually was approved and sent to the legislative floor on an 8-0 vote of the Legislature's Public Works Committee Thursday.

The bill, Crofton Sen. J. W. Burbach's LB941, had drawn no opposition at a public hearing Wednesday.

The measure would allow the Department of Roads to grant special permits for overloading during the winter period on roads the state engineer decides can take the heavier loads without damage.

A bill with similar objectives, Newman Grove Sen. Thomas Kennedy's LB929, was killed.

At a public hearing preceding the executive session actions, organized motorcycle dealers opposed a bill which would make it a statewide requirement for motorcycles to have headlights and tail lights on when operated either day or night.

The bill was held for later disposition.
Sen. Shirley Marsh of Lincoln sponsored the measure, LB701.

The committee killed 6-1 Falls City Sen. Irving Wiltse's LB720, which would have required licensing under the Motor Vehicle Industry Licensing Act of some trailer sellers now exempt.

Sent to the floor were two bills sponsored by Sen. Robert Clark of Sidney:

— LB611, permitting youngsters who become eligible for driver licenses on reaching 16 to take the required examination up to 30 days in advance of their 16th birthday.

— LB652, exempting from Public Service Commission regulation those transportation services for the elderly provided by governmental subdivisions.

Murder Trial Site Changed For Boyle

Philadelphia (UPI) — The Pennsylvania Supreme Court ordered the site of the murder trial of former United Mine Workers (UMW) President W. A. "Tony" Boyle changed to Delaware County in the Philadelphia area.

Damage From Trailer Fire Considerable

A Lincoln man escaped injury early Saturday when a fire broke out in his trailer.
Michael Carroll, 4020 No. 48th St., was awakened by a Notifier smoke detector. He saw a fire in the front of his trailer and contacted the Lincoln Fire Department.
The fire apparently started in an electric heater, under a work bench in the front of the trailer. Damage to the front of the trailer was described by fire officials as considerable.

'Pioneering Effort' For Universities ... New Budget Approach Is Unveiled By Marvel

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

State Sen. Richard Marvel, meeting with administrators and faculty members at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Thursday unveiled what was hailed as a "pioneering approach" to budget-making for the university, other state institutions and higher education across the nation.

The approach, based essentially on a five-step management by objectives concept, would also employ an outside visitation team effort to evaluate selected university departments' quality.

It was developed over the past several months with the help of an eight-member Lincoln campus committee appointed by Chancellor James Zumbege.

"We've got something here that is a pioneering effort," said UNL Prof. Wallace Peterson, president of the faculty senate, and a member of the campus committee.

And Zumbege, who acted as host at the luncheon gathering, told Marvel "you may have launched a new era not only for budgeting in Nebraska but also for higher education" across the nation.

"When you look back in three to five years, this may well have been the turning point for support of higher education," Zumbege suggested.

Marvel, an announced Republican candidate for governor, began his presentation by saying he was appearing as chairman of the Legislature's Appropriations Committee.

He said he will recommend the concept to the committee and to the full Legislature "and I hope that we shall use this concept in making budget decisions for all agencies of state government."

All Invited
As a beginning, he said, he was inviting the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and "any other institution of higher education in this state" to participate in the experimental approach.

He applauded the Lincoln campus "for the effort which has been put forth in recent months to develop sound budgetary practices" and said UNL has met in its 1974-75 budget request what he believes are the essential elements for good budgeting: reduction of the "continuation" base, reallocation of internal resources, and a start toward "sound accountability practices."

What Marvel termed a five-point model for budgeting would call on the university and any other institution to define its goals, develop a plan of action, define the budget needed, set standards for reaching the goals and then measure progress toward reaching them.

Progress would be reviewed semiannually by an outside evaluation team of professors from other universities, professionals from public life and citizens.

Council To Eye Malone Building

City lawmakers will act on the Malone Community Center board's plea to remodel the deteriorating facility at Monday night's council meeting.

On the agenda is a resolution authorizing the expenditure of up to $20,000 in federal revenue sharing dollars to renovate the building, which board members said was in need of repair.

An ad hoc committee composed of Parks and Recreation Director Don Smith, Community Development Director Don Smith, Property Manager Dennis Fettingler and City Maintenance Foreman Dan Michael toured the city-owned building this week and recommended a number of repairs to the mayor.

Scherer said the group made that recommendation because of the "age of the building and its high rate of use."

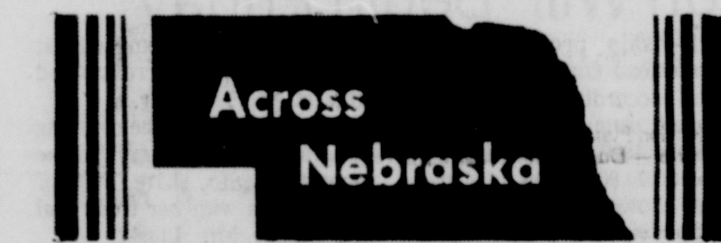

Recommended repairs include installation of a new gym floor, a new paint job, storm windows, central air conditioning and installation of a burglar alarm system.

The repairs were judged "reasonable and justifiable" by Scherer since, he said, the gym floor is buckling, sloping and in some areas "spongy" from rot or termites.

The center's gym is used not only for athletic events, but for meetings and as a child care center.

The committee recommended that the floor be replaced with either another maple floor or with plywood sheathing and tile.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf is recommending council approval of the expenditures, Scherer said.

Blair Theater Operator Fined $1,000

Blair — Curtis Arthur Muck, who was found guilty of showing an obscene film in the Home Theater in Blair last November, was fined $1,000 and costs by Judge Chester N. Sutton in County Court. Muck's attorney, Walter Matejka of Omaha, filed a motion for a new trial, which was overruled. Immediately after the pronouncement of the sentence, Matejka requested an appeal to the District Court. Appeal bond was set at $1,000, and with the posting of this bond, Muck is free until his case can be heard in District Court.

Commission On Status Of Women Formed

Columbus (UPI) — Columbus has become the second Nebraska city to form a mayor's commission on the status of women. Mrs. Shirley Wilken of Columbus announced. Omaha is the only other city in the state with such a commission. Columbus Mayor Fred Gerber said he will announce the names of his 12-member commission soon after which standing committees will be designated and appointed.

Foreign Language Program 'Active'

Kearney (AP) — While some state colleges have reported declining enrollments in foreign language courses, officials at Kearney State College say the language program there is going strong. Dr. Harry Hoffman, dean of the College of Fine Arts and Humanities, described the language program as "quite active." Dr. Ari Sosa, head of the foreign language department, said that 381 students are enrolled in language courses this semester. The college offers French, Spanish and German.

Sioux County Okd For Food Stamps

Chicago (UPI) — The U.S. Agriculture Department said that Nebraska's only county previously not operating under the federal food stamp program has been designated to participate in it. The USDA's food and nutrition service said that Sioux County was one of 84 counties and welfare regions in 12 states recently designated eligible for the food stamp program. The USDA said Sioux County was the first of the seven U.S. counties without a food assistance program to be designated under a nationwide mandate. The mandate, under the agriculture and consumer protection act of 1973, requires a nationwide food stamp program by July of this year.

Disabled Vet Develops His Mind

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Grand Island — "My buddy sort of spun around, and as he fell dead I saw that part of his head was blown off. Then I remember glancing at my arms. Both of them looked like raw hamburger, only with bones sticking out."

Despite 24 hours straight on the operating table, Bob Wicht lost his arms. It took eight alternating surgical teams and 21 units of blood even to save his life.

All that was three years ago, when Bob was an Army electronics technician with only five weeks behind him in Vietnam. Blown up with the direct rocket hit were all his plans for a career in electronics — his sole reason for enlisting.

But hope itself remained. Though the youth's right arm was amputated at the shoulder and his left above the elbow, an inborn grittiness was still very much intact.

That became evident even in the hospital as Wicht plunged into a correspondence course in science, a favorite during his days as a Grand Island high schooler. Such spunk continues to show as the incredible 22-year-old notches one success after another as a commuting

Kearney State College junior.

"I was fairly depressed to begin with, but I figured there was only one way to go to make anything at all of myself," he recalled. "The only hope for an armless guy is to develop his mind."

Laboriously typing all his papers with the tapered stub of his left arm, he manages a B-plus grade average as a biology major. The same handy stub, augmented by conventional power steering and automatic transmission, enables him to do all his own driving.

But such achievements are only the start.

An articulate vice president of the local Audubon Society, Bob often tangles with agencies he considers "threats to the environment." He's also active in the VFW and a citizens band radio alert team for which he drafted this area's emergency mobilization plan.

Personal Research
Stringently opposed to the beleaguered Mid-State Reclamation Project, he invested several hundred hours into a personal researching of Platte river water levels. Even that hardly compares with the time he's putting into a scientific book on mosquito development.

Now about half completed, the book will feature from 200 to 300 photos indexing the 26 common species of mosquitoes in all life stages. The compilation, originated as a less ambitious class assignment, hopefully will be published as an authority on species identification.

"Some of the work has never been reproduced in any publication," said Wicht. "Its principal use likely will be by state health departments and county agents, especially in the control of disease-carrying species."

By using a tripod, the student plans his own photocomposition but must rely upon his wife for making camera settings.

Janice, a petite local girl whom he married before going overseas, also assists with micro-photography in his home laboratory. And she is kept running the couple's 2-year-old son, Eric.

Although Bob has tried two kinds of artificial arms, he insists they "have too many limitations." He manages some amazing feats without them.

Even Goes Hunting
He mows the lawn, scoops snow and even hunts. A special shoulder harness devised by his father, Chris, also a Grand Islander, permits him to wield either shotgun or rifle.

"Some of my worst moments after I came home were walking with hunter friends and not being able to carry a gun myself," he recalled. "I do well enough with the harness that I got 12 ducks this year, also one pheasant and a few quail. Next fall I'm hoping for a deer and an antelope."

Comfortable in a new home made possible by his disability pension, Bob has two possibilities in mind after graduation. First choice is to be a biologist for the State Game and Parks Commission, but he's also considering an independent laboratory of his own.

Either, he noted, beats considerably his likely fate had he not been wearing a bullet-proof vest when that enemy rocket exploded. The close call left him with "a very real appreciation for life."

Bitterness? What there was of that, and admittedly there was some following the amputations, has long since vanished.

"The vast majority of people in this country take it so much for granted," he reflected. "That I'll never do. The United States, like life itself, means more to me than ever."

Johnson, then an 18-year-old University of Nebraska forestry student, was clearing trails near the firetower at Bear Wallow, Ore. For two months his radio had been his only contact with civilization.

Although U.S. planes had been ruled out of the area because of the danger of forest fires, Johnson thought little about the plane he heard through the usual low-flying fog.

About 10 miles inland, Fujita signaled bombs away and his navigator and bombardier triggered two 190-pound incendiary bombs. Both confirmed fires.

About four hours later, Johnson received a radio report from headquarters to scan the southwest for smoke. Another four hours later, he arrived at Wheeler Ridge, about eight miles away, and put out a dozen or so small, smoldering, isolated fires.

The Zero returned to the submarine, was taken aboard, and the sub cleared out.

After the war Fujita opened a successful metal products sales business. At 64, he still flies a small sports plane owned by him and three friends.

State Geologist Reports Groundwater Up During '73

The year 1973 was a good year in Nebraska for adding to groundwater supplies, said Vincent H. Dreeszen, the state geologist and director of the Conservation and Survey Division of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, on Thursday as he spoke to 75 members of the Nebraska Well Drillers Association at the Center for Continuing Education.

Above-average to near-record precipitation in the state contributed to the increased water supplies added to natural underground storage areas (aquifers) throughout most of the state in quantities greater than those withdrawn he said.

Unusually heavy precipitation started back in the past winter, October 1972 through March 1973, averaging 150% to 160% of normal in the western half of the state and 230% of normal in the southeast and east-central divisions.

Water levels in the state rose in general with the near-record precipitation in September and October, said Dreeszen. Preliminary analysis of 699 key wells in the state suggests that water levels in most of the state were higher in the fall of 1973 than in the preceding fall.

Some Down
Average water levels were down slightly in 13 counties, compared to 33 counties in 1972, Dreeszen stated. The most significant declines were recorded in the counties of Fillmore (-0.86 ft.) Chase (-0.50 ft.), Harlan (-0.46 ft.), and Box Butte (-0.34 ft.), he added.

Water levels rose in individual shallow wells in the counties of extreme southeast Nebraska as much as five to 10 feet, he stated. Average water levels were significantly higher along the Platte River in such counties as Gosper, Phelps, Kearney, Valley, Greeley, Sherman, Howard, Butler, Saunders, Lancaster, Saline, Gage, Nuckolls and Jefferson.

One important part of the groundwater story in Nebraska, according to the state geologist, is that 8,500 new irrigation wells have been put in during the last five years, the second highest total for any five-year period of record.

That brings the total number of registered wells in Nebraska to 41,131.

Featured speaker at the noon luncheon the second day of the two-day workshop for well drillers was Dan L. Gardner, vice president for exploration, Northern Natural Gas Co.

"Conservation"
"We're promoting conservation now," said Gardner in explaining the downgrading of advertising by his company. "We don't have to try to sell gas anymore. We have to try to keep from selling it."

The American consumer has some difficult decisions up ahead of him in the immediate future, said Gardner. He may have to choose between being a little hungry or a little cold or perhaps putting up with a little more inconvenience, he said.

"We've got to cut our use," he said. The reason, he explained, is that there simply is not going to be enough fossil fuels in the next two to five years to meet all energy needs.

Problems today, he said, are to some degree a function of a 20 year syndrome of cheap energy. "We all are going to have to face the fact that energy supplies are going down and the price is going to have to go up," he said.

He indicated that Northern Natural has already spent three years of research on the development of coal gasification as a future energy source, although there is still no commercial process available today for turning coal into gas.

James W. Goeke, research hydrologist of the Conservation and Survey Division, led a general discussion on a proposal for the licensing of well drillers in the state.

Most of the discussion of the licensing proposal centered on the technical details of implementation. Some members seriously questioned the advisability of including contractors responsible for septic tank installations in the proposal applying to well contractors and pump installation contractors.

Turf Industry Told To Try Old Ways

When Fred Grau gazed into his crystal ball to forecast the future for the turfgrass industry, he must have had a rear-view mirror. Thanks to the energy crisis and environmental concerns, the turf industry will have to reconsider old methods to continue their high level of quality, he said.

Grau, consulting agronomist at College Park, Md., addressed participants at the 12th annual Nebraska Turfgrass Conference here Thursday.

The new year, he said, may bring some drastic changes for turf growers and golf course superintendents. In justifying his recommendations and predictions, Grau prefaced his remarks, "We can be sure that there will be a permanent change in the way we will live. Our wasteful habits will be done away with. We will practice conservation in every thing that we do. This applies to turf as well as to every operation that is performed. We have been extremely dilatory in master planning."

He noted that tourism has been granted a high-priority position in the energy pinch, which means that recreation and turf will be recognized as important items in our economy. But even with special consideration, Grau saw fit to point out a variety of possible changes to help the industry reconcile itself to the problem.

The agronomist suggested that superintendents shift from cars and trucks to motorcycles and bicycles to supervise their courses. He stretched this outlook to the customers as well by encouraging superintendents to help arrange car pools and buses for their players, and promised that golf carts would shortly be relegated to the mothballs. Such action would reopen the caddy job market, which would be timely with the predictions of underemployment, he added.

Grau offered help to both the golfing and sheep industries by suggesting superintendents bring in sheep to crop the grass. He explained, "I've played on woolly-grazed turf and it is surprisingly good. Their hooves tread and firm the turf. They graze as close as most good mowers will cut."

A water shortage could accompany an energy shortage, which means "used" water such as sewage effluent for turf, said Grau. Since most golf courses are close to high population centers, this should not be an insurmountable problem. The other alternative is to produce playable turf with natural rainfall.

Support For Great Plains RR Is Sought

Seward — Owners of the Great Plains Railway have scheduled a public meeting for 2 p.m. Friday in Seward to seek support for the fledgling railroad's efforts to revive Seward to Superior service.

The meeting will be held in the Seward Civic Center.

The abandoned Seward to Superior line was purchased by Seward area elevators and citizens principally as a possible means to reduce grain transportation costs.

Ted Wells, vice president of the railway, said to grain producers operation of the line would mean 10 cents to 25 cents per bushel in reduced transportation costs each year.

He also suggested the line will have carryover benefits to the area served in the form of more income for the economy, bigger tax revenues, attraction of industry, reduced highway costs and fuel savings.

But Wells said, "We've got to sell $200,000 worth of stock immediately or the line will be sold for scrap."

"We're pleading with everyone with even a remote interest" to attend the meeting Friday, he said.

Crash Kills Waterloo Woman

A spectacular three-vehicle crash in west Omaha early Thursday claimed the life of Doris Hussey, 19, of Waterloo.

Police said she was alone in her eastbound car when it was in collision with a car driven by Ronald Mollie, 24, of Omaha, who was northbound at 72nd and Dodge.

The impact forced the Mollie car into a Metro Area Transit Bus, which was stopped in the westbound lane of traffic. No one aboard the bus was seriously hurt.

The Hussey car was split in half by the impact, with police reporting about 156 between the pieces of the car.

The death hiked the Nebraska highway fatality count for the year to 14 as compared with 26 a year ago.

Meanwhile, the 1973 Nebraska fatality toll climbed by one Thursday.

Authorities said Mrs. Elmer Bonness, 61, of Archer, died in a Grand Island hospital of injuries suffered in a car-truck crash on U.S. 30, about seven miles east of Grand Island Dec. 11.

The driver of the truck was Norman R. Rudnick 51, of Tilden. Officers said the car struck the rear of the truck.

IRS Finds Consumers Overcharged $30,815

Des Moines (AP) — Retail service stations and home heating oil distributors in Iowa and Nebraska during the past week were found to have overcharged motorists and homeowners by $30,815, said J. T. Rideouts of the Des Moines District of Internal Revenue Service.

He said 11 retailers of gasoline and No. 2 diesel fuel and home heating oil dealers have agreed to refund the overcharge to the public by means of lower prices than authorized under the current Economic Stabilization Program Regulations.

Investigators found that the overcharge was the result of incorrect computations of ceiling prices with respect to the various petroleum products.

IRS investigators will continue checking of wholesale and retail prices of petroleum products and Rideouts indicated that not only the prices would be subject to checking, but also all activities relating to distribution of petroleum products.

The IRS said the largest overcharge — $12,911 — was made by Conley Defensen Truck Stop at North Platte.

Other Nebraska firms included the Updike Oil Co. and the Liberty Gas & Oil Co., both of Omaha.

Occupancy Drops

Memphis, Tenn. (AP) — The world's largest lodging firm, Holiday Inns, Inc., reported that reduced auto travel resulting from the energy shortage caused a 3% drop in room occupancy rates in December.

Iowa Man Dies In Road Mishap

Belmond, Iowa (AP) — A Clarion, Iowa, man was killed just north of here Thursday when his car collided with a semi-trailer truck.

Officials identified the victim as B. Coy Babb, 44.

Haymarket Classes Planned

By GRACIA SIEB
And CYNTHIA JOHNSON

Everything from art for pre-schoolers to a course in Indian culture and art has been included on the Haymarket Art Gallery's schedule of pre-spring classes.

Most of the classes will begin next week, and scholarships — based on talent and need — are available.

One of the classes specifically designated for children is the Art for Pre Schoolers class, which will be taught by Phyllis Westmoreland, Mondays from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m., beginning Jan. 28. Children aged 4 through 7 are welcome to attend the eight-week course which will feature a mixed-media approach.

Nancy Wallace will teach two four-week sessions of Children's Handbuilt Pottery and Sculpture, scheduled to begin Jan. 26 and Feb. 23. The class will be held Saturdays between 9:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m.

Two four-week sessions in Sketching and Drawing will be taught by Cheryl Gatliff. The classes will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays, between 1 p.m. and 2:30 p.m., and sessions will begin Jan. 29 and Feb. 26.

Basic Figure Drawing will be taught by Maureen Tillman, Mondays between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. Four-week sessions will begin Jan. 28 and Feb. 25.

Jan. 29 and Feb. 26 are the starting dates for two four-week sessions in Silk Screen. Instructor for the Tuesday, 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. classes, will be Steve O'Hare.

Batik classes will be held Wednesday evenings between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. beginning Jan. 30 and Feb. 27. Lucille Hedges will teach the two four-week sessions.

Weaving — including needle weaving and creative off-loom techniques — will be taught by Ann Williams between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. Thursdays, beginning Jan. 31 and Feb. 28.

An eight-week session, Painting with Acrylics, will begin March 8. Chauncey Nelson of Omaha will teach the 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. class.

A class in painting with oils and acrylics, taught by Devon Adams, will begin April 17. The class will meet Wednesdays between noon and 3 p.m., and because it is a continuing class, those interested may join at any time.

A new addition to the Haymarket schedule is a class entitled "Indian Culture and Art." Taught by Reuben and Mina Delgado, the four-week sessions will explore Indian music, tribal customs, symbolism and art; and it will include discussion and instruction in art and handicraft techniques. The class will meet on Mondays between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m., and sessions are scheduled to begin Jan. 28 and Feb. 25.

Details concerning a pottery class to be taught by Gretchen Imler will be announced at a later date.

For further information, contact Haymarket Art Gallery, 119 So. 9th St., 432-7373.

Czech Music Concert

The Nebraska Wesleyan University chamber ensemble will present the second of two concerts featuring Czech music at 3 p.m. Sunday in Elder Gallery.

Included on the concert program will be a set of three short sonatas for string quintet by composer Heinrich Franz Biber and a duet for violin and viola by Jan Vaclav Kalivoda.

Soloist sopranos will be Mary Louise Holding, who will perform an aria from Smetana's opera "The Kiss" and selections from the well-known Dvorak "Biblical Songs," and Ruth Stephenson, who will sing a set of "Evening Songs" by Dvorak.

Other performers will be Jean Saiser, piano and viola; Morris and Aleta Collier, violin; Pat Morrow, viola; and guest Carol Work, cello.

In addition to the concert performance, Elder Gallery currently is exhibiting paintings by Cheryl Gatliff and jewelry sculpture by Kern Wisman, both Nebraska Wesleyan graduates. Their exhibit will continue through Feb. 10.

Sheldon Film Theater

Selected from a collection of brilliant short films by the directors of the 70's, "The Best of New Cinema" will be shown at 3, 7 and 9 p.m. Tuesday in the Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery Theater.

The collection of nine films on varied subjects and ranging in length from one to 27 minutes will include "Enter Hamlet" by Fred Mogubgub, USA; "Renaissance" by Valerian Borowczyk, Poland; "Les Mistons" by Francois Truffaut, France; "The Running, Jumping and Standing Still Film" by Richard Lester, England; "Dialog" by Zlatko Pavlinic, Yugoslavia; "The Fat and The Lean" by Roman Polanski, Poland; "Corrida Intedita" by Denys Colomb de Daun, France; "Maschine" by Wolfgang Urich, Germany; and "La Jetee" by Chris Marker, France.

"The Best Of New Cinema" program is being shown as a benefit to raise money for a newly formed film co-op here in Lincoln, according to Dan Ladely, Theater director. "The co-op will enable local filmmakers to have access to cameras and editing equipment which are so expensive that individuals cannot to buy them."

Also, as part of the Documentary Film Series, the Sheldon Film Theater will feature Emile deAntonio's "Painters Painting" at 3, 7 and 9 p.m. Saturday.

The two-hour film on New York painting from 1940 to 1970 includes interviews with various contemporary artists as they are at work in their studios.

New London Soloists

The Lincoln Friends of Chamber Music will present the New London Soloists Ensemble during an 8 p.m. Friday concert in Kimball Recital Hall.

The Ensemble is conducted by violinist Ronald Thomas and the evening's program will include "Brandenburg Concerto No. 5" by Bach; "Adagio for Strings" by Barber; "Divertimento, K. 136" by Mozart; a scene from "Orfeo et Euridice" by Gluck; and "The Four Seasons" and "Concerto for four violins in B minor, RV 580" by Vivaldi.

Tickets may be purchased at the box office, 113 Westbrook Music Building, or by calling 472-3375 or 472-2506.

"Tristan and Isolde"

In conjunction with the 34th Texaco-Metropolitan Opera season, radio station KRNU-FM (90.3) will broadcast Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde" at 12 p.m. Saturday.

KRUN is operated by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

"The Invention"

This weekend, Theater Arts For Youth (TAFY) will sponsor the opening of "The Invention," which will be presented by the Nebraska Wesleyan University Theater department in the NWU Loft Theater.

The play concerns the invention of a toy machine, which is complicated by the arrival of a toy spy who attempts sabotage.

Performance dates for "The Invention" will include 4 p.m., Friday, Jan. 25 and Feb. 1; 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 26 and Feb. 2; and 2 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 27 and Feb. 3.

Tickets may be obtained by calling 475-1081, ext. 268, before 5 p.m.

Hints Designed To Help You Eat Better And Spend Less

A recent Family Circle Magazine bulletin, entitled "74 Ways To Eat Better And Spend Less" by JoAnne Alter, offers several shopping tips to aid families with their biggest single budget problem — food.

"The average urban family now spends about $220 a month — almost 25% of its total net income — on food," writes Ms. Alter. "And while the cost of eating continues to soar, that percentage is only likely to increase."

However, by following the author's advice, Ms. Alter estimates that the average family can save as much as 10% to 20% a month. Included among the money-saving hints are:

—Plan your meals around store meat specials, since meat accounts for about 30 percent of your food bill. But be flexible in making up your shopping list, to allow for unadvertised sales or bargains.

—Eat first, shop later. When you're hungry, you tend to buy more food than you need... and it's often the more fattening foods you gravitate to.

—Go it alone. Shopping with a friend is not a good idea. It's too easy to be tempted into purchases you might otherwise ignore, if your friend buys the items first. Leave the kids home too, if possible. They're bound to plague you and the family's budget.

—In addition to newspaper-advertised specials, many stores will reduce prices on meats, baked goods and ripe fruit shortly before closing time at the end of the week. The reason is simple. They'd rather sell the items for less than have them go bad over the weekend.

—To select brands, first check the weights of those packages or cans you're considering. Then check the list of ingredients. By law, all ingredients must be listed in decreasing order of weight. A can which lists "beef, gravy..." will contain more beef (50% minimum) than a can which lists "gravy, beef..." (and may have only 35% beef). If the weights and ingredients are the same, then check the price.

—Always take advantage of unit pricing where it's available. Where it's not, here's how to figure the unit cost on odd-sized packages. Convert pounds to ounces (16 ounces = 1 pound) or quarts to ounces if the product is liquid (32 ounces = 1 quart). Then divide the number of ounces into the price, to get the price per ounce.

—Never assume that because two brands or two products come in the same size package or bottle, that they contain the same amount. One well-known cereal manufacturer offers four different flavors of oatmeal in four identical boxes (usually sold at the same prices). Only when you look at the weights do you find that one box contains 13 ounces of cereal; one contains 12 ounces; one, 10 ounces; and one, only nine ounces of cereal. "Same" price? Hardly.

—Volume buying is almost always a good idea. Sidney Margolius, the dean of consumerists, says: "On the average, you save 18% by buying the large or medium-size of a food product instead of the small, and 10 percent more by buying the extra-large..." In fact, the potential savings on some products are 50% and more. Staples such as coffee, sugar, cereal, flour and salad oil should always be bought in the largest sizes and kept in airtight containers. When it comes to fresh produce and dairy products, however, buy only as much as you'll use within a three-to-five-day period.

—Consider convenience foods. They save work, but you usually pay for the time-saving. There are occasions when the additional cost is worth it. But buy convenience foods wisely. When food editor Mimi Sheraton recently weighed the ingredients in a popular brand of Chicken Noodle, Caciator-style, she found the $1.09 eight-ounce package contained only 1 3/4 ounces of chicken. At about 50¢ an ounce, Ms. Sheraton, concluded, the cost of the chicken came to about $8 a pound!

—At the end of the aisle: Not a golden bargain necessarily. Just because items are prominently displayed, doesn't mean they're reduced in price.

—Never touch any item unless you plan to buy it. According to Nancy Weaver, the odds are 19 out of 20 that if you pick something up, you'll end up buying it.

—Non-food items such as paper goods, household cleaners, soaps, shampoos and laundry detergents account for a substantial 20 to 25 percent of your bill at the checkout counter. Check prices for similar items in the housewares or toiletries departments of discount and drug stores to make sure you're getting the best buy.

—It's a good idea always to pay cash for groceries. When you write a check, it's much easier to rationalize a few more items here and there — some of which you may not need at all.

Doctor And Broker Can Offer Advice

DEAR ABBY: Every time the stock market goes DOWN 10 points, my husband's blood pressure goes UP 30 points. I'm afraid one of these days he's going to drop dead.

He has quite a lot invested in the market, but thank God, not everything. I never look at the stock market reports in the newspaper anymore. And when it comes on the news over the radio, I turn it off. I figure there's nothing I can do about it anyway, so why spoil my day, right?

I've been trying to get my husband to quit following the market so closely for his own good, but he won't listen to me. The minute he walks thru the door I can tell how the market was by looking at his face. He's never had a real heart attack — only a "warning." Don't you think if he got out of the market altogether he'd live longer?

PEGGY

DEAR PEGGY: Not if he sold his stock at 40 and it went up to 120! If your husband follows (a) his doctor's advice, and (b) his broker's advice, he could be in good shape for a long time. Don't nag him.

DEAR ABBY: I just read in the newspaper where a 238-pound woman wanted to get down to 124 pounds so she could wear a bikini like her teenage daughters, so she had a dentist cement her teeth together to keep her from eating. She'll live on liquids until she gets down to the desired weight, then the dentist will remove the cement from her teeth.

More than 1,500 Girl Scouts and Brownies in Lincoln and the surrounding area will begin their annual cookie sale campaign Friday.

Can you please find out who that dentist is, and how much he'd charge to do the same thing to my wife? Her problem isn't eating, it's talking.

HAD IT IN NASHVILLE

DEAR HAD IT: The dentist is in England. And I doubt if he'd do it for the reason you suggest.

Annual Cookie Campaign Will Begin Friday

A majority of the profits from the sale, to continue through Sunday, Feb. 3, has been earmarked for the camping program.

Proceeds also will help finance the environmental, governmental, service and citizenship projects of the Homestead Girl Scout Council, Inc., according to Mrs. Lee Liggett, campaign chairman.

Since 1969, receipts from the sale of 70,000 boxes of cookies have allowed the Girl Scouts to completely winterize the main lodge and three camping units at Camp Catron, a 60-acre wooded area at Nebraska City.

The emphasis on the camping program is to give every girl the opportunity to share outdoor experiences with her troop and her friends, Mrs. Liggett said.

Bridge
Dummy Play

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Seven Clubs. North leads the queen of diamonds. How would you play the hand?

♠ — ♠ AK875
♥ AQJ10 ♠ 83
♦ AK ♠ 972
♣ AKQJ862 ♣ 10 97

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump. North having overcalled your diamond bid with a heart. North leads the king of hearts. How would you play the hand?

♠ A6 ♠ Q74
♥ A82 ♠ J543
♦ AQ107 ♠ KJ94
♣ AJ94 ♣ Q6

1. If you relied solely on the heart finesse, you would have only a 50 per cent chance for the contract. But, in fact, your chances can be greatly improved by first testing your luck in spades.

Win the diamond, play a low trump to the seven, and ruff a low spade high. Reenter dummy with a second trump and ruff another low spade high. Next cross to the ten of trumps and cash the A-K of spades, discarding two hearts.

If the spades are divided 4-4 (a 33 per cent chance), the eight of spades will provide a parking place for your heart loser.

If the spades are not divided evenly, you fall back on the heart finesse. The recommended method of play gives you two shots at the contract instead of only the one you'd have if you relied entirely on the heart finesse.

2. Let's assume you took the heart and entered dummy with a diamond in order to take a club finesse. In that case, you would fail if North's hand looked something like this:

♠ J102 ♥ KQ1096 ♦ 5 ♣ K1083
He would win the club, shift to the jack of spades, and down you'd go.

To make sure of the hand, win the heart and play a low club at trick two. If North has the king and takes it, you follow low from dummy and have nine tricks. If South has the king and takes it, you are up to eight tricks and can easily make a ninth by playing a heart to the jack.

If North has the king of clubs and does not take it, you win in dummy and later on develop your ninth trick in hearts.

Education Coordinators Dispute Roles In Nursing

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

An otherwise quiet meeting of the Nebraska Council for Coordination of Postsecondary Education Thursday erupted into a verbal battle over two-year nursing programs and the role the University of Nebraska and state technical community colleges should play.

The debate ensued after NU Regent Robert Koefoot, who said he was acting only for himself, told the council he met two weeks ago in his hometown of Grand Island with representatives of the state colleges to talk about establishment of a four-year nursing program in central Nebraska.

Koefoot said his idea was to promote a program in which the NU Medical Center would work with Kearney State College and Hastings College to develop a bachelors degree nursing program with Medical Center approval.

Proposal Similar

Although he said the Board of Regents had not been informed of the idea, Koefoot said the proposal could be similar to a board proposal to establish a four-year program in Lincoln.

Koefoot's remarks, which came near what appeared would be adjournment of the meeting, prompted President Michael Paradise of the Central Nebraska Technical Community College in Hastings to ask why the Grand Island meeting had not included a representative of the central college area.

When Koefoot replied, "I didn't think there was any reason for it," the verbal exchange began.

The coordinating council is a voluntary body with representatives from NU, the technical community colleges and the state colleges.

Paradise, who represents community college administrators on the council, told Koefoot that the technical community colleges have a role to play in providing two-year associate degree programs which may fit into the university's career ladder approach that reaches all the way to a masters degree.

Understanding

In fact, he said, he believed the technical community colleges had reached an understanding on that point with NU President D. B. Varner and Chancellor Robert Sparks of the Medical Center.

"I believe we can do as good a job as the university of Kearney State College can do," said Paradise, who noted the technical community colleges are just beginning to move toward expanding their one-year practical nursing programs into two-year associate degree programs.

But Koefoot made it clear he believes the Medical Center should be at the "top of programs for nursing in the state" because it has the expertise.

'Good Enough?'

"You say we are not good enough," said Paradise.

"That's right, you're not," Koefoot responded.

Although the discussion largely involved Koefoot and Paradise, Executive Director Robert Schleiger of the state technical community college system said he was particularly concerned because he too believed the university had agreed to help the community colleges establish two-year programs, not only for Central Nebraska but also in Norfolk and Scottsbluff.

Eventually, Schleiger proposed establishing a nursing education study committee and the council decided to form such a group for an all-day meeting next week in Lincoln to discuss the matter.

The special study committee, to include laymen and representatives of the three systems, will meet Thursday if arrangements can be finalized.

As the meeting adjourned, Paradise suggested that the effort to voluntarily coordinate postsecondary education in Nebraska may be "tested" in the nursing area.

Earlier in the meeting, the council had discussed how it should approach a legislative bill which would put all the state's institutions under one governing board.

In that discussion, several members said they would prefer to try the voluntary method at least another year. They've been meeting voluntarily since about a year ago.

New Family Services Head Picked

David Pierson has been re-elected president of the board of directors of Family Service Association of Lincoln.

Other officers re-elected at the group's annual meeting include Dwayne Rogge, vice president; Mrs. G.L. Collins, secretary; and Julius Ross, treasurer.

Helen Adams, Robert Egbert and Leighton Wessel were named to the board for three-year terms.

Total requests for services were up 18% in 1973, according to Jack O'Shea, the agency's executive director. However, O'Shea said, the number of unmarried mothers seeking help from the agency and adoptive placements were down.

The largest number of requests for services continues to be for marriage difficulties and parent-child problems, he said.

License Tabs Being Issued At Slower Rate

With more than three weeks of the time in which to obtain 1974 motor vehicle license tabs past, the number issued to date is running far behind, according to Lancaster County Treasurer Frank Golden.

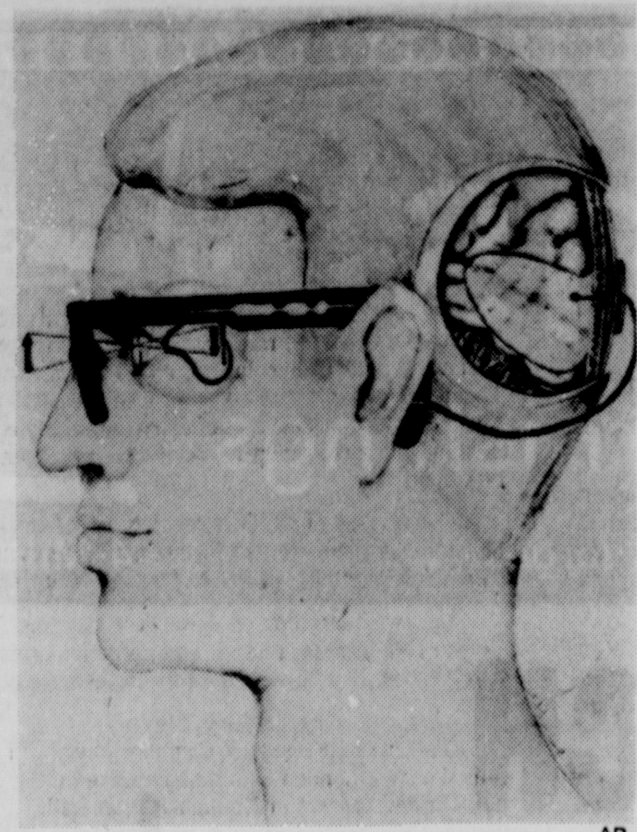

Golden said that only about 34,000 sets of tabs of the nearly 90,000 vehicles to be licensed in the county had been issued by Thursday.

Tags may be obtained from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday at the County-City Building or at Gateway Auditorium through Feb. 28.

23 Boys Die In Dorm Fire

HEUSDEN, Belgium (AP) — Twenty-three teen-age boys died in a Catholic school dormitory fire that police sources say may have been caused by a youth smoking in bed.

Police said earlier that 25 boys died in the Wednesday night blaze, but later issued an official correction.

This May Help Blind 'See'

Here is an artist's concept of an artificial eye being designed by University of Utah researchers. If successful, it would allow the blind to "see." Images received in the artificial eye would be transmitted to the frames of glasses and carried back to electrodes on the brain, permitting the wearer to perceive an image.

Community Services President Is Nissen

James F. Nissen, executive vice president of the National Bank of Commerce, was elected president of Lincoln Community Services (LCS) at the organizations annual meeting Thursday noon.

Nissen will serve as president for 1974.

Donald Morris was elected vice president; Charles Burmeister, secretary; and Richard A. McDaniel, treasurer.

Outgoing president Leo J. Beck outlined the accomplishments of the past year which included:

— Lincoln's largest United Fund campaign ever, surpassing the goal of $1,285,975.

—The addition of a full-time planning director and increased emphasis placed in the planning area.

—Submission of a 1974 budget of $1,306,223 by the Agency Relations Division.

Stocks Of Feed Grain Decline By 8% In Year

Total feed grain stocks—corn, oats, barley and grain sorghum — on Jan. 1 totaled 16,682,000 tons, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said Thursday.

The total was 8% below a year earlier, division director Doug Murfield said.

Corn accounted for 78% of the total, compared with 82% last year.

Farm and off-farm corn stocks were down 13 and 14%, respectively, bringing the total to 465,063,000 bushels, 13% below a year earlier, Murfield said.

Oat stocks increased 17% to 17,787,000 bushels, grain sorghum stocks were up 16% to 119,795,000 bushels and barley stocks were almost unchanged at 865,000 bushels.

Murfield said total wheat stored was 76,684,000 bushels — 45% less than a year earlier. Farm stocks showed the largest decrease, down 57%, with off-farm stocks down 42%.

Rye stocks declined to 1,301,000 bushels, 17% less than a year earlier.

Murfield noted that soybeans stored on and off farms increased 36% with the total stored amounting to 31,097,000 bushels.

Former POW Muses About Year's Change

CORONADO, CALIF. (AP) — Taking command of an antisubmarine warfare wing with 875 officers and more than 4,000 men, Rear Adm. James B. Stockdale mused over the change his life had undergone in one short year.

"One year ago today," he said, "my earthly possessions consisted of two pair of frayed pajamas, a pair of Ho Chi Minh sandals and a tin drinking cup."

The admiral was released last February after spending 7½ years in a North Vietnamese prison. Since then, he has been under treatment for a leg injury suffered when his plane was shot down in 1965.

Roberta Peters Flourishes Despite Voice Weaknesses

By RICHARD GRACE

The long, illustrious career of Roberta Peters continued to flourish in a Lincoln concert Thursday evening at Pershing Auditorium. Miss Peters, accompanied by pianist John Wustman, charmed a Community Concert audience with a solo recital that included songs from many familiar roles with which she is identified on the operatic stage.

Miss Peters, a seasoned veteran of over 20 years with the Metropolitan Opera, sang four arias from roles that are coloratura in nature: "Deh vieni non tardar" — Susanna's aria from Mozart's Marriage of Figaro, "Una voce poco fa" — Rossini's aria from Rossini's Barber of Seville, "Caro nome" — Gilda's aria from Verdi's Rigoletto and "O luce di quest'anima" — Linda's aria from Donizetti's Linda di Chamounix. In all these songs this lovely soprano demonstrated an opulent middle and low range, delicate coloratura agility and an exceptional ability to communicate the meaning of the text.

But the beautiful, free, high notes with which she has been so often identified and which are so necessary for this particular style of repertoire, are now only occasional. Most of these pitches show tension and a tendency toward a slow wobble which is disconcerting, to say the least, to the listener.

This problem was immediately apparent in the opening selection, "Alleluiah" of Mozart. In addition to a rather deliberate tempo there were some disturbing vowel distortions in the quick scale passages and an absence of the usual high "C" at the climax of the song.

The remainder of the recital was devoted to a repertoire which Miss Peters handled with ease: four French songs of Debussy, four Spanish airs by Rodrigo and four completely entertaining arias from the Viennese masters of operetta.

The pianist, John Wustman, accompanied Miss Peters with much sensitivity to her rubato tempi but his playing was not without flaws. The piano should be most embarrassing to the Pershing management. The voicing is frightfully uneven and it sounds like it should have been retired from the concert stage years ago.

UFW Plans Intensified Boycott Of Nonunion Lettuce, Grapes

Keene, Calif. (AP) — The United Farm Workers of America plans an intensified boycott of nonunion lettuce and table grapes and selective strikes this year in its decade-long struggle with California produce growers.

But the campaign also will be waged in the state legislature with all sides arguing over legislation aimed at regulating agriculture union organizing, virtually ungoverned by existing labor laws.

Growers want a ban on harvest-time strikes and the secondary boycott, the favorite bargaining weapon of UFW President Cesar Chavez. The UFW and its parent AFL-CIO will agree to guaranteed secret ballot union elections, but without boycott or strike restrictions.

UFW organizers say use strikes will be more selective in 1974 in an effort to avoid violent confrontations which occurred last summer.

The Teamsters Union will honor contracts stripped from the UFW last year but has not resumed efforts to organize more ranches. A spokesman refused to say whether that signals a willingness to renew attempts at a truce, aborted twice in 1973.

"We are servicing every contract we have signed but are not organizing anything at all," said Cono Macias, Teamsters agriculture supervisor in California.

Grape growers, targets of last year's tension, also will stick by their Teamsters pacts, says John Giumarra Jr. of Delano, partner and general counsel of the nation's largest table grape firm. Except for Boston, Mass., the boycott "really hasn't had much effect," Giumarra claimed.

"The overriding reason is purchasers in these cities realize these grapes are grown, prepared, harvested and shipped by union help under union contract with benefits that are really unprecedented in union agriculture," Giumarra said.

UFW spokesmen dispute this, ticking off cities where they say the boycott is working and claiming increasing success against Gallo Bros. winery, which also switched to the Teamsters to represent field help.

Increased trade union support and an official endorsement by Catholic bishops will help the boycott work faster than did the drive which led to the original table grape contracts in 1970, the spokesmen say.

"I think by the time spring comes, the boycott will be so tight there will be some reaction from growers," one Chavez associate said.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Friday

Persons born under Earth signs tend to have square palms, fewer lines on the hand than is average, thick, stiff thumbs and relatively short fingers. The Earth signs are Taurus, Virgo and Capricorn.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Tensions melt. This can be a time when friends, hopes and wishes truly blend. Welcome social invitations. Deal with persons who think and challenge. Your personality sparkles. You are able to get your way in constructive manner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Pretense is torn away. You get facts of life — in professional, personal and other areas. If you don't expect or desire an answer — don't ask questions. Truth now becomes foe or ally, depending on your stage of development.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Gain indicated through reading, writing. Get ideas on paper. Check and develop. Refuse the superficial. Dig deep for additional information. Be a detective. Find reasons. Synthesize. Perceive situation as a whole. You will get the picture.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Money situation affecting family, home can be favorably resolved. Taurus, Libra persons could be in picture. Savings program, investments, tax deductions are involved. Purchase of luxury item is considered.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Avoid tendency to see through haze of illusion. You could be deceiving yourself about situations, persons. Reunite with ally of long standing. Deal with familiar patterns. Leave risk-taking for another time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You get down to basic issues. Bluffing, empty talk are swept aside. You now are able to demonstrate, to graphically illustrate needs, methods. Capricorn, Cancer persons could play significant roles. Accept challenge, responsibility.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): There is fire where before there was cool darkness. Means situation heats up — relationship becomes meaningful. You are able to complete, distribute, agree on final deal. Aries figures prominently. Apply finishing touch.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): One who appeared old-fashioned, inflexible, is now "on your side." Be independent, creative, original — without fear. Shackles are removed. Your enthusiasm pays dividends. Leo, Aquarius could play key roles.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Surprise element is featured. Recent lesson can now be applied. Don't fear the unorthodox. Instead, use it to your advantage. Aquarian will be co-operative. Relative aids in getting you into a more secure situation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Accent versatility. Be experimenting, working with available material, you develop profitable procedure. Broaden horizons. Refuse to be pained into corner. Rise above petty associates. Element of timing is in your favor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): What appeared a setback actually will bounce in your favor. Know it, be thorough, specific and confident. Your own personality, style win the day. Do some tearing down for purpose of rebuilding. You will profit.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You deal with persons who are secretive. You may have more questions than answers. Gemini, Virgo could figure prominently. Look behind the scenes — bypass what seems to be the obvious. Someone is putting out bait, hoping you will "bite."

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are spiritual, aware, sensitive, somewhat of a perfectionist. June should be one of your most significant months of 1974. Persons born under Pisces and Virgo are drawn to you. You are a visionary, able to perceive future trends. Be more confident and you will be a "world-beater."

Serious Flooding Likely Along North Platte River

Scottsbluff (AP) — Figures released by the State Civil Defense Agency indicate that serious flooding is possible this spring along the North Platte River in Nebraska, according to George A. Smith, Civil Defense director for Scotts Bluff County.

A memo sent to Smith from the State Civil Defense Agency in Lincoln said, "The entire North Platte Reservoir system, including Lake McConaughy, was filled to 76 per cent of capacity" on Jan. 3, 1974.

Because of this condition, the memo said, "Nebraska faces more than its usual share of flooding threats."

According to Smith, the high level of water in the reservoirs this winter is at least in part due to a high carryover of water from last year. Unusually high rainfall occurred last year during the growing season, leaving higher than normal water levels in the reservoirs last fall.

"We had the highest carryover on record last year," said Ralph Asbridge, project manager of the North Platte River Project for the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation in Casper, Wyo.

Asbridge also noted that winter flows have been "somewhat higher than normal this year." He attributed the slightly higher levels to mild weather in December.

Asbridge said, however, that he could not make any predictions as yet about possible conditions of the river in the spring. "We haven't had a snow survey of conditions in the mountains as yet. We expect to conduct a survey around Feb. 1, and then we will meet with people from Nebraska and Wyoming to make plans on how to handle the river to avoid any possible flooding in the spring," he said.

But Smith said present conditions do not look good along the river. "The figure of 76 per cent of capacity in the reservoirs at this time of year is an all-time high," he said. "It doesn't allow for much additional accumulation, and February and March normally have much higher runoff from the mountains than January."

"If the runoff in February and March continues at the rate it has been in December and January, we will have a worse flood than we had in 1971," Smith said.

The 1971 flood caused considerable low-land flooding along the upper reaches of the North Platte River in Nebraska and led to the construction of dikes in several communities.

Missouri Ice Bridges Said To Remain Intact

Ice bridges producing considerable overflow on the Missouri River between Brownsville, Neb., and Atchison, Kan., should remain intact at least for another day or two, the National Weather Service said Thursday.

Ice continues to block the river between Atchison and Rulo, Neb., but a Corps of Engineers spokesman in Kansas City said no reports of additional flooding had been received since Wednesday.

The weather service said current temperature forecasts indicated the ice jams would remain in place unless loosened by mechanical action. However, an anticipated warming trend could lead to a breakup over the weekend or by early next week.

The NWS report said rapid stage fluctuations of five to 10 feet and more could occur once the breakup begins, producing sharp drops in river stages upstream and flash flooding in downstream reaches to near Leavenworth, Kan.

Boys Town Center Set For Catholic U In D.C.

Boys Town (AP) — A Boys Town Center for the Study of Youth Development will be established at the Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C., according to Omaha Archbishop Daniel E. Sheehan.

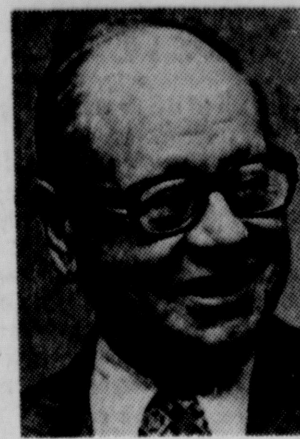

The project will involve an eventual expenditure of at least $11,250,000, he said.

Archbishop Sheehan, president of the board of directors at Father Flanagan's Boys Home at Boys Town, said an agreement was signed with President Clarence C. Walton of Catholic University.

Negotiations are under way for establishing a Western Regional Research Center at Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif., and an agreement is expected soon, he said.

The center will be affiliated with the Boys Town Center for the Study of Youth Development headquartered at Boys Town.

Archbishop Sheehan said the Boys Town Center will study such problems as rejection of parents, drug addiction, antisocial behavior and inability to learn.

Carl T. Curtis

Curtis: 1973 'Just Wasn't All That Bad'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., told the Senate Thursday that 1974 "will be the best year yet."

Last year had its problems, but "it just wasn't all that bad."

Americans have a lot to be grateful for, he said.

"The Watergate affair has dampened everyone's spirit," he said.

"But it is being investigated in the freest country in the world..."

"The energy crisis is burdening all of us, but it will lead to self-sufficiency in the future."

"Inflation affects us all... but the American standard of living remains by far the highest on earth."

Women Voters Back Discussion

The League of Women Voters will sponsor a panel discussion native American culture, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Indian Center, 903 O.

Robert Mackey, executive director of the Nebraska Indian Commission, will be panel moderator. Other members of the panel are John Two Birds Arbuckle, Webster Robbins, Rick Williams, Frank Black Elk, Karen Buller and Nancy Solomon.

IRS Seeks Taxpayers Entitled To Refunds

Omaha — The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is trying to locate taxpayers who overpaid their 1972 or prior year federal income tax, but who have not received their refund checks because of changed addresses or incomplete return addresses.

If your name appears on the list, call or write the Internal Revenue Service, Federal Office Building, 15th & Dodge Sts., Omaha, Neb. 68102. Nebraska residents outside of Omaha should call 800-642-9960.

The refund checks are not available in Omaha. If it is determined that you are entitled to a refund, the check will be mailed to you at your current address.

Whether you write or call, you will be required to give positive identification.

The following are Lincolmites due federal refund.

ORDINANCE NO. 10992
AN ORDINANCE amending Chapter 23.06 of the Lincoln Municipal Code (Electrical Code) by adding a new section to be numbered Section 23.06.261 entitled "Grounding-Type Receptacles and Protection" to postpone the effective date of enforcement provisions under Section 210.7 of the 1971 Edition of the National Electrical Code for ground fault interrupted circuit breakers, effective from January 1, 1974 to January 1, 1975; repealing said Section 210.7 of the National Electrical Code, 1971 Edition as adopted by reference in Section 23.06.010 of the Lincoln Municipal Code; and DECORATING THE CITY.
BE IT ORDAINED by the City Council of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska:
Section 1. That Chapter 23.06 of the Lincoln Municipal Code be hereby amended by the addition of a new section to be numbered Section 23.06.261 to read as follows:
23.06.261 GROUNDING-TYPE RECEPTACLES AND PROTECTION.
Section 210.7 of the National Electrical Code, 1971 Edition is amended to read as follows:
210.7 Grounding-Type Receptacles and Protection.
Receptacles and outlets, except those equipped with grounding contacts, shall have those contacts effectively grounded by ground rods or by a circuit raceway shall include or provide a grounding conductor to which the grounding contacts of the receptacle or outlet are connected. Acceptable grounding means are outlined in Section 250-91(c).
Exception: For extensions only in existing installations which do not have a grounding conductor in the branch circuit, the grounding conductor of a grounding-type receptacle outlet may be grounded to a grounded cold water pipe near the equipment.
All 15-ampere single-phase temporary circuits for receptacle outlets on construction sites shall have approved ground fault circuit interrupter protection. This requirement shall become effective January 1, 1975.
Section 2. Whenever an emergency exists this ordinance shall take effect and be in force immediately after its passage and publication in the City Clerk's Office.
Introduced by Max A. Denney

'Ideological Struggle' Seen By Concordia College President

Lincoln Star Special
Seward — There's a "real ideological struggle going on in our church body," declared Dr. Ted Janzow, president of Seward Concordia College, in reference to the current dispute involving the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod administration and the faculty at Concordia Seminary at St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. John H. Tietjen, president of Concordia Seminary since 1969, was ousted earlier this week on charges of malfeasance of office and the teaching of false doctrine at the seminary. The suspension brought a resolution from his faculty denouncing the charges as "absurd pieces of harassment and propaganda."

The president of Seward Concordia College said the St. Louis situation is "sad and unfortunate."

"A combination of forces and factors is involved" in the situation, Dr. Janzow said.

He said he sees no direct implications from the St. Louis situation to the Seward College.

Teacher Training
Seward Concordia College, fully accredited, is concerned primarily with teacher training for elementary and secondary schools, the president explained.

Dr. Janzow said Seward Concordia has always been "theologically conservative," but has been accused of not being conservative enough.

Christian News, described by Dr. Janzow as an "ultra-conservative unofficial publication," made the accusation against Concordia at Seward, he said.

The publication "dealt loosely with the truth about Concordia," claimed Dr. Janzow.

Dr. J. A. O. Preus, president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, visited the Seward campus a year ago and gave his approval to Concordia as did the board of higher education after a visit here in 1972, Dr. Janzow stated.

Lynch Enters Race Against McCollister

Omaha (UPI) — Douglas County Board Chairman Daniel Lynch Thursday formally announced his decision to seek the Democratic nomination for Nebraska's Second Congressional District.

Lynch spoke to members of the Omaha Press Club, citing a "general dissatisfaction" by voters for the "consistent performance" of incumbent John Y. McCollister.

"The most frequent criticism involves the difference between what the congressman says, and what he does," Lynch said in a prepared statement. "I feel that the incumbent has tried to delude the voters into believing that his actions are separate from those of the present administration."

"This is seriously inconsistent with the incumbent's voting record, however. His record shows that he has never failed to vote to sustain a presidential veto," he added.

Lynch, however, denied inconsistency in his own actions with regard to a recent attempt by the county commissioners to raise their salaries from $12,000 to $15,000 a year.

Rail Crossing Mishap Injures Endicott Man

Lincoln Star Special
Fairbury — The fifth railroad crossing accident in 14 months within the Fairbury city limits seriously injured an Endicott man Thursday.

Hospitalized at St. Elizabeth Health Center in Lincoln was Bernard Kellie, 48, an employee of Peoples Natural Gas Co. He suffered a broken leg and head cuts, but was listed in "satisfactory" condition.

According to Fairbury police, an eastbound van driven by Kellie was in collision with a Union Pacific freight headed northwest about 11:35 a.m. The engineer was J. A. Peterson of North Platte.

Officer Lewis Bales said the van was carried approximately two blocks from the point of impact. The crossing has a signal light but no traffic gate.

Although this is the first recent accident at that particular crossing (Fourth and C), records show that four others have occurred on UP crossings since Dec. 8, 1972.

A. Batchelder Plans To Run For Lt. Gov.

Omaha (AP) — Anne Batchelder of Omaha announced Thursday she will seek the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor.

"I believe this is a time when Republicans who feel strongly about their party must do all they can to promote it and be more active," she told a news conference.

Mrs. Batchelder has been active in Republican politics for many years and was Republican National Committeewoman from 1964-1970. She is currently president of the Nebraska Federation of Republican Women.

She was vice chairman of the Nebraska Republican Party from 1959-1964.

She is the publisher of the Douglas County Gazette and "The Metro," and is a director of the Waterloo State Bank, the U.S. Check Book Co., and the Freedom Foundation of Valley Forge, Pa.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

San Francisco — We enter the Year of the Tiger with high hopes. It is year 4652 in the Chinese calendar.

You should pay your bills. It gets rid of bad luck — if you've been sued lately, you know that.

Now Tsao Chun, the kitchen god, goes to heaven to report to the Jade Emperor. (Chinese ladies never bathe in the kitchen. It would embarrass Tsao Chun. I figure Tsao Chun is a very straight arrow fellow. Never looks at Playboy.)

I learned a lot about Chinatown and Chinese New Year and Chinese noodles when I was assigned there for nearly a year. I was young and expendable.

The city editor said: "The management has some daffy idea about doing more in Chinatown. You are going to be the Chinatown reporter."

I said: "How about a raise?" He said: "With the price of newspaper like it is?" He said: "Look on this assignment as an opportunity."

I spend a lot of time eating wind blown duck.

At midnight of the New Year, moppets of the household approach their elders and bow. The elders give them money in lucky red envelopes with lucky saying printed in gold.

The children should not spend the money until the 15th day of the moon.

Some good days come up before the New Year. Meat Pickling Day is a good day. It is a good day to paint walls.

On New Year's Day all Chinese children become one year older.

On our New Year's day all thoroughbred horses become a year older.

Happy New Year, tots and thoroughbreds!

In Chinatown I ate noodles with the head men of the Six Companies.

I ate steamy dim sum with Jack Manion, a police sergeant who headed the Chinatown squad.

I trailed Dr. Margaret Chung — "Mom" Chung — while she held street fairs and auctions for China at war.

She said: "Only five dollars for this meringue cream pie?" She said: "I'll tell you what I'll do. Bid this pie up to 25 dollars and the buyer can throw it in this reporter's face!"

Mack Sennett comedy goes big in Chinatown. The pie went up to $35.

Wham! Right in the face.

It was so successful that Margaret and I toured all the Chinatowns of California. Each night I got a cream pie in the face.

"You don't have to do this son," said Mother. "Come back and live on the estate in Newport and sail the yacht."

(I said: "What? Give up journalism?")

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

CRENSHAW, KITE TIE FOR LEAD

...Former Teammates Fire Seven-Under 65s

Compiled From News Wires
Former University of Texas teammates Ben Crenshaw and Tom Kite took advantage of bright, warm sunshine to fire matching seven-under-par 65s and tie for the first round lead Thursday in the $170,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

The 22-year-old Crenshaw, who won $76,749 in two events last year after turning pro in October, had seven birdies, an eagle and two bogies on his card of 31-34. The 24-year-old Kite, who has yet to win a tour title in two years of trying, had seven birdies on his card of 33-32.

The rookie Crenshaw, who has won once and finished second twice in an infant pro career, went six under par in one string of five holes—a birdie, birdie, eagle, birdie, birdie.

Kite, now in his second season on the pro tour, didn't make a bogey in his solid effort that included only 29 putts—"the best putting round I've had in three years," he said.

That put the two Texans a shot ahead of still another Texan—35-year-old Homero Blancas—California Cesar Sanudo, and first year pro Richard Mast of Lima, Ohio.

Blancas, like Crenshaw and Kite, played the easier Torrey Pines North course in 80 degree weather and made the tour in 35-31 with four birdies and an eagle. Sanudo, who corrected a driving weakness the day before, had six birdies in a round of 33-33. Mast also had a 33-33, including an eagle.

Sanudo, who has had driving problems for two years, played his opening round on the South course, which measures out nearly 400 yards longer than the North, but said "when you are shooting good, it really doesn't make any difference where you play."

Richard Mast, another first-year man on the tour and one of the last in the field to finish, also got in with a 66 on the north course.

Leonard Thompson had a 67 in the generally low scoring and the group at 68 included Gene Littler, Bobby Mitchell and New Zealand's John Lister.

Crenshaw, the winner at the San Antonio-Texas Open last fall and runner-up to Miller in last week's Dean Martin-Tucson Open, got off to a poor start with bogeys on the first two holes he played, the 10th and 11th.

He missed a couple of relatively short birdie putts on the next four holes, then got untracked on the 16th. He made birdie from 30 feet there, holed another of about the same length on the next hole and, on the 490 yard, par five 18th, put his second shot on the green and made a third consecutive 30 foot putt, this one par eagle.

Turning to the front nine, he chipped to 18 inches for birdie on No. 1 and chopped a short iron shot out of the rough to within four feet on the second hole. It was another birdie.

The strong, stocky youngster with the mod-length blond hair, birdied the fifth and seventh holes with 20 and 15-foot putts and chipped up to four feet on the ninth, his last hole, for a birdie that gave him a share of the lead.

Kite missed only two greens and chipped in for birdie on one of those, the 10th. He reached two of the par-fives in two and two-putted for birdie, holed one 15-foot birdie putt, chipped to three feet for another and made a duce on the 17th with a 35-foot putt.

"We're good for each other's games," Crenshaw said. "We've been at each other's throats since Tom was 13."

Both live in Austin, Tex., have been head-to-head competitors since their days in junior golf, played on the same Texas team and once tied for the title in the National Collegiate Championship.

The players swap courses for the second round and then wind up the last 36 holes on the South layout in the chase for the $34,000 first prize.

Because of the ideal weather, scores were generally low.

Bob Lunn, Dwight Nevil, Don Iverson and Mark Hayes were at 69. Bill Casper and defending champion Bob Bickson managed even par 72s.

"I really can't say I struck it real well," said Crenshaw of his round. "It was a funny round because I started out with a pair of bogies but then everything started to go into the hole."

Crenshaw played the back-side first and ran down 30-birdie putts on 16 and 17 and another 30-footer for an eagle on 18.

"This was my best putting round in three years," said Kite, who won $54,000 last year. "All the putts were center cut."

Kite's longest birdie putt was a 35-footer on 17.

Connors Experiences Trouble Coletti Omaha Knights Bomb Foes Albuquerque's Reeson

Omaha — For the first set Kim Warwick played better tennis than Jim Connors.

However, Connors rallied to defeat the Australian, 6-7, 6-1, here Thursday night at Civic Auditorium in the sixth annual Midlands International Tennis Tournament.

"Kim was playing extremely well and I was very lucky to be able to come back and win," Connors said.

"This court is so different than any I'm used to playing that it took me about the first set to find out exactly how the ball was going to bounce."

The stringy-haired Connors the top-seed in this tournament was originally scheduled to play on Wednesday.

His match was moved back to Thursday upon his request because he was recovering from the flu.

"The extra day had to help me because I was able to get another day of rest and build up my strength," the southpaw said.

"The ball was never put away because the court is so slow and I needed that extra strength with many of my shots being returned that wouldn't have been returned on another court."

Connors also believed that his double-handed backhand, which his future wife Chris Evert also uses, was an added advantage.

"I probably had more left at the end of the match because I used both hands on my backhand," the UCLA graduate said.

"Kim only uses one hand on his backhand and since our match went a long time with the slow surface, that probably was to my advantage."

In the first set Connors never led, although he was tied at one and two games.

Warwick then went to a 4-2 lead before Connors won another game. The two traded wins until the score was tied at six games each.

The Aussie subsequently constructed a 4-0 margin in the nine-point sudden death playoff only to have Connors rally to 4-3.

The composed Warwick, however, finally won the set with a tremendous volley that Connors was unable to return.

From that point on the action was dominated by America's co-top-ranked player, as the Australian could do little right.

Connors zipped to a 2-0 lead in the second set before Warwick won his only game in that set.

In the last set Connors broke from a one-all tie and the match was never in doubt.

"I was taking more chances with my shots in the second and third sets because I felt I knew how the ball was going to play," Connors said.

"I was lucky on a lot of those shots, but I'd rather be a little lucky and win rather than play conservative and possibly lose."

Every boxer who makes a name for himself as a tough opponent will run into a certain problem: No one to fight.

Of course, there are the exceptions — if you're a professional title-holder for one — but usually when you're an amateur that problem doesn't exist.

Every boxing fan knows the "problem" fighters of the past — Sam Langford, Gunboat Smith, Jack Moran stand out as the top professional fighters who couldn't get the fights they deserved and everybody knows what happened when Jack Johnson got his break or Sonny Liston or . . . the list is endless — but what can an amateur do?

Dieter Coletti seems to be experiencing a similar problem. He's proved that he's a tough opponent that, despite his limited ring experience, he cannot get anybody to fight him during the boxing smokers in Lincoln.

And the sad thing about Coletti's case is that he's in a good division for fighters — 139 pounds.

"I've got almost a whole team ready," MSU boxing coach Jim Brown said Thursday when questioned about the Lincoln Boxing Smoker scheduled for 8 p.m. at Pershing Auditorium Friday. "I've got a couple of new fighters who will probably be matched, but I don't know about Coletti. Nobody wants to fight him."

It isn't through lack of trying. Brown has taken Coletti to every boxing smoker in Lincoln plus hosted a few at the State Reformatory but no opponents seem to be willing to take him on.

"We've tried and tried, but no boxer at those smokers has been willing," Brown said. "The only chance he might have is if Jim Pelster comes down. And that's possible since they seem to like fighting down here."

Coletti lost his first amateur fight on a split decision to Easterday Boxing Club and Southeast District Champion Ray Menefee when Menefee gave away five pounds early this year, but Menefee has since dropped in weight.

The next fights Coletti had, he pounded out impressive decisions and even collected a technical knockout. But in his last Lincoln appearance, Coletti pulled out all the stops and showed how far he'd come by throwing everything but the ring bell at Jeff Parker of Omaha en route to a unanimous decision. Since then he's been fightless.

Weights for the smoker will be held at 6 p.m. with boxing to get underway at 8 p.m.

Omaha — Don't try telling Omaha Knight coach Fred Creighton that Albuquerque's Ray Reeson is an easy goalie to defeat.

"That's really only the second game we've had an easy time with him," Creighton said after Omaha scored a 7-2 Central Hockey League victory over the Six Guns here Thursday night at Ak-Sar-Ben Coliseum.

"He's already beat us this year and he's got a tie," Creighton said. "He's a tough goalie but he really wasn't himself tonight."

That's an understatement. Reeson who was named Omaha's most valuable player last season for leading the Knights to the Adams Cup playoff title, was bombed early.

Within the first eleven minutes, five Knights had scored to put Omaha safely ahead, 5-0. Then Six Gun coach John Choise replaced Reeson in goal with Clay Hebertson. The only thing left for Reeson to do was to endure the vocal abuse of some of the rowdier fans among the crowd of 3,015.

"The start we got off to was unreal but after that there really wasn't much to choose from between the two clubs," Creighton said. "After that early scoring it was a case of us not being as hungry and they played pretty well in the last two periods."

"We got off to a good start but then we had to struggle," the Omaha coach added. "This could be a big weekend since we have two more game (home tilts Saturday against the Six Guns and Sunday against Dallas.)"

Creighton was also encouraged that seven Knights scored.

The Omaha goal scorers included John Flesch, Don Martineau, Allie Sutherland, Mike Conroy, Eric Vail, Jean Losier and Wayne Schaab, who entered Thursday night's action as the CHL's leading scorer.

The Six Guns were never really in the game but played slightly better than their last-place record of 7-25-14 would indicate. It was also Omaha's tenth consecutive home contest without a defeat.

Albuquerque lost a 6-5 decision to league-leading Oklahoma City in New Mexico and Creighton felt that might have hindered the Six Guns.

Ken Ireland, a former Knight tallied the visitors' first goal with only 22 seconds remaining in the second period.

The game was enlivened in the last two minutes when the visitors were assessed three simultaneous minor penalties after Choise tossed two towels and an ice bag on the ice in protest of what he felt were poor calls by the officials.

Hedberg, Kucera To Battle

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

It's hardly the time of season to discuss individual basketball honors, but a sneak preview of possible all-stars may be in the making Saturday night when fourth-ranked Lincoln East plays at ninth-ranked North Platte.

The important Trans-Nebraska Conference contest brings together the league's top two scorers in East's 6-8 Curt Hedberg and North Platte's 6-8 Bruce Kucera.

"It'll be a key individual battle," says East coach Paul Forch. "I'm hoping Hedberg has a little more poise as the result of playing tougher competition."

According to Forch, Hedberg is experiencing an outstanding season. "He probably should be averaging 30 a game," the East coach says, "but he's so unselfish. He'll pass off first."

Hedberg has already received some early-season endorsements. Omaha Central coach Jim Martin, after his team defeated East by three points in December, called Hedberg and 6-8 Omaha Ryan ace Larry Vaculik "the best big players in the state."

Three games are scheduled in Lincoln Friday night on a heavy weekend prep calendar. They include Papillion (4-6) at East, Hastings (2-6) against Lincoln Southeast (1-6) at Johnson Gym and Omaha Gross (5-4) at Lincoln Pius X (7-3) in a game which Lincoln's channel 9 will cablecast live.

Elsewhere Friday night, third-ranked Lincoln Northeast (6-0) plays at Norfolk (2-8) and Lincoln High (2-5) visits Ralston (5-5).

Saturday night, Northeast hosts Millard (4-7) at East and Lincoln Pius X entertains David City Aquinas (11-0). Beatrice (3-8) and Southeast will square off at Johnson Gym.

Forch calls the Papillion-North Platte weekend challenge a critical turning point.

"We're at a stage in our schedule where we must build momentum," he says. "North Platte's entire offense is devised for its front line, as it should be. They're good shooters, they move well and they can play defense."

The game not only will pit the conference's two leading scorers against each other. It also

Baseball Fan Is Fined $100

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A baseball fan was fined $100 and court costs on a conviction of petty larceny Thursday for walking off with a home run ball he found outside a sandlot park last July.

District Court Judge Robert Stephens offered to suspend the fine and costs if Fred Spiller, for a year's probation, would chase, and return, out-of-the-park baseballs at McAdams Park, where the July incident occurred.

Witnesses testified that Spiller was warned by two police officers at the park as he walked away with the ball that it was against regulations.

Hamburger King Plans To Purchase Padres

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Describing himself as "some kind of baseball nut," 71-year-old Ray A. Kroc went before city officials Thursday to nail down details of his plans to buy the San Diego Padres for a reported $10 million.

The arrival of Kroc, chairman of the McDonald's hamburger chain, apparently delighted Mayor Pete Wilson and City Atty. John Witt, whose threatened antitrust suits against the National League have delayed the baseball club's move elsewhere.

"I can give them all the guarantees of not moving, once I have the club," said Kroc. "I'm a man who honors his guarantees."

If the sale goes through, and the league approves, Witt said, the city would withdraw $84 million in breach of contract and antitrust suits designed to prevent the Padres from skipping out on the last 15 years of a 20-year stadium lease.

Owner C. Arnholt Smith announced plans last May to sell the Padres to Joseph Danzansky, a Washington, D.C., supermarket executive, for $12 million. The suits were filed, but Danzansky said Monday that an insurance company agreed to protect the league against indemnity.

The league's club owners approved the shift to Washington on condition that Danzansky protect them from a huge court judgment. Two California groups have since offered to buy the team and leave it in San Diego—a Los Angeles combine which bid $12 million but was rejected by the league and two San Diego contractors who came up with $8.5 million, rejected by Smith as too little.

The league's turnaround of the Los Angeles group, headed by Marjorie Everett of Hollywood Park racetrack, left Kroc interested. He says he turned to his wife, Joan, and asked, "Honey, what would you think if I bought the Padres?" She replied, "I would say that you are nuts."

On Kroc's 70th birthday last year Mrs. Kroc gave $7.5 million to hospitals and museums. Their wealth is estimated at $500 million.

"I'm not going to be an absentee landlord," Kroc told newsmen. He owns a ranch in the Santa Ynez Valley near Santa Barbara, Calif., and homes in Chicago and Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., but plans to rent a place in San Diego.

"Mr. Smith is very emphatic about wanting to keep the club in San Diego," Kroc said. "And I'm 100 per cent cooperative." He promised a high-paid team with stars and a competitive record and that the Bavasis, father and son, would stay as president and general manager, respectively.

Kroc has tried since 1965 to buy the Chicago Cubs, his favorite team since childhood, but says he finally gave up.

Northeastern Wins, 79-73

NORFOLK, Neb. (AP)—John Redmond scored 19 of his 25 points in the second half Thursday night to lead hosting Northeastern Community College to a 79-73 Nebraska Junior College Conference win over loop-leading Platte College of Columbus.

Ron Simmons aided the Hawks with 21 points. The visiting Raiders showed a balanced scoring attack with five men in double figures, led by an 18-point performance by Greg West.

Tied 31-31 at half, Redmond's hot hand in the second stanza decided the contest.

Creighton Subdues St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Tall Creighton burst to three substantial leads, then used late shooting by Charles Butler and Ted Weubben to subdue St. Louis University 60-54 in non-conference basketball Thursday night.

The traveling Bluejays squandered eight-point commands late in the first half and early in the final period before gliding to their 13th victory in 17 games.

In conquering Missouri Valley Conference opponent a fourth straight time, Creighton overcame the torrid second-half shooting of sophomore Lewis McKinney, who totaled 13 points.

The two teams battled to a 22-22 standoff at intermission before Creighton, with 7-foot Mike Heck in the lead, burst to 37-29 advantage.

Billy Morris and McKinney, however, sparked a St. Louis rally shooting the Billikens on top 40-39 four minutes later.

McKinney's field goal from in close edged St. Louis ahead 44-43 before a Richie Smith free shot and a Butler field goal sent Creighton ahead to stay.

Weubben, who scored all nine of his points in the second half, hit four free throws in the final minute and a half.

The pencil-thin Heck headed a balanced Creighton attack with 14 points, while Morris garnered 19 as the St. Louis leader.

CREIGHTON (60): Weubben 3 3-4, Harmon 3 0-6, Brooks 2 4-8, Smith 1 3-4, Bobik 2 2-6, Butler 3 0-6, Aderson 3 0-6, Heck 6 2-4, Totals 23 14-20. ST. LOUIS (54): Morris 8 3-19, Jones 3 0-3, McKinney 4 5-13, Ries 0-0, Hackmann 2 0-1, Craig 1 2-2, Scott 3 0-6, Walsh 1 0-2, Totals 22 10-17. Halftime: Creighton 22, St. Louis 22. Fouled out: Harmon, A. 2:19.

Black Hawks Edge Bruins, 2-1

BOSTON (AP) — Pit Martin and Darcy Rota's first-period goals stood up and Chicago edged the Boston Bruins 2-1 in a National Hockey League game Thursday night delayed with 50 seconds left as fans littered the ice in protest of what they thought was failure to call a penalty against Chicago.

Referee Wally Harris halted the game when fans erupted after Bobby Orr was tripped at the blue line. Orr protested when no penalty was called and most of the 15,000 spectators followed suit.

Harris also called a bench penalty against Boston and the Bruins finished out the game, delayed 40 minutes for cleaning operations, with a man short. Coach Bep Guidolin then pulled goalie Gilles Gilbert and the Bruins finished the game with five skaters.

The delay was lengthened at one point when a union official called the sweepers off the ice until the rain of rubbish ceased, which occurred when it was announced that further such action could lead to arrest.

Martin's goal, his 20th of the season and seventh in his last eight games, gave the Hawks a 1-0 lead at 9:02 when he flipped in a rebound of Dick Redmond's drive on the power play.

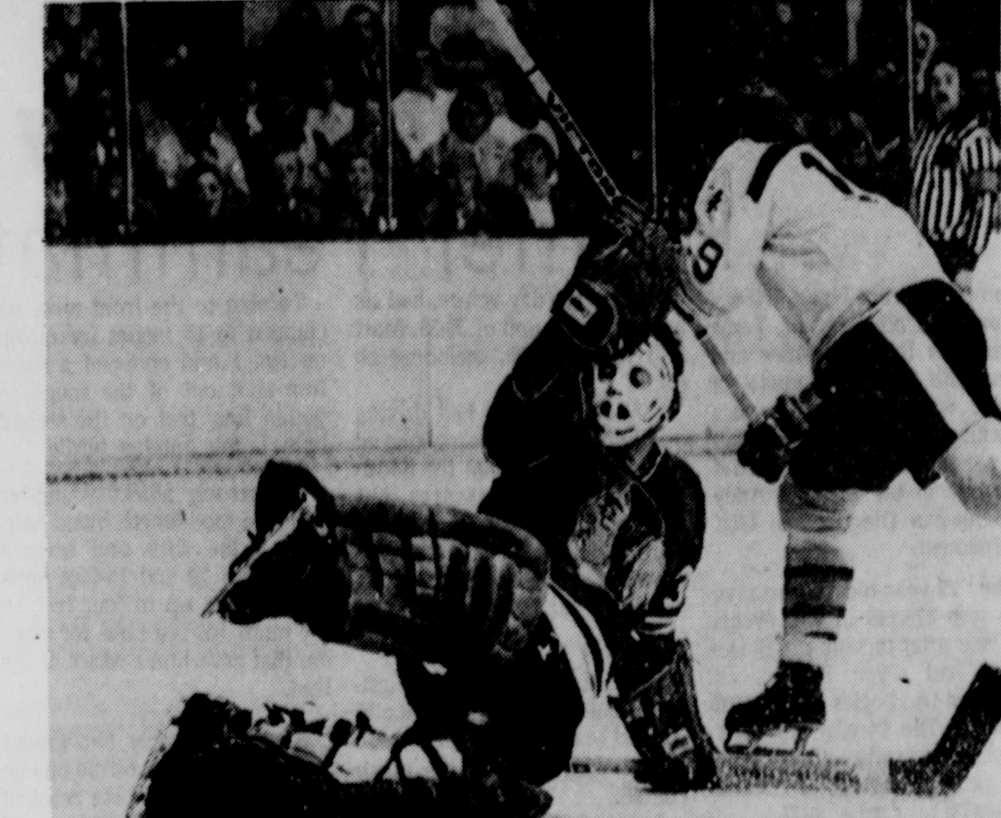

Rookie Rota notched his fifth goal in the last four games at 18:48, sliding the puck between Gilbert's legs from the face off circle.

Greg Sheppard got the Bruins' goal at 5:14 of the second period, finishing off a Orr rush by popping Orr's rebound.

It was only the Bruins' second defeat in 24 home games and the first time this season that the two clubs had played to a decision. Three previous games ended in ties.

Boston's Derek Sanderson received 10-minute and game misconduct penalties in the second period for charging referee Harris on a penalty call.

Phil Esposito had two fine chances at his goal-tending brother Tony early in the first period. Both were partial breakaways in which he drew Tony to the side of his cage, but then missed the open net.

Wooden: Preparation For Irish Not Tougher

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach John Wooden stressed two main things Thursday in preparation for UCLA's return game against Notre Dame Saturday night, even though All-American Bill Walton is stronger than he was last week.

Walton, the 6-11 player-of-the-year in college basketball the past two seasons, suffered a back injury against Washington State on Jan. 7. He didn't return to action until last Saturday at Notre Dame, a game in which the Irish ripped off 12 consecutive points in the final 3 1/2 minutes to overcome a 70-59 deficit for a 71-70 victory, breaking the Bruins' record 88-game winning streak.

Although he scored 24 points, Walton wasn't at top strength and was unable to perform at peak effort in that game, grabbing only nine rebounds. But he has appeared stronger in practice this week. Before Saturday night's game at Pauley Pavilion, where UCLA has won 58 straight, the Bruins will play host to Santa Clara Friday night. Notre Dame had a game at home against St. Francis, Pa. Thursday night.

The Irish also played at Kansas Tuesday night, edging the Jayhawks 76-74.

Odds makers have installed UCLA as a strong favorite to beat Notre Dame and regain their No. 1 ranking from the Irish.

Wooden plans to start his regular lineup—Walton, Keith Wilkes and Dave Myers up front, and Tommy Curtis and Pete Trgovich in the backcourt.

"I hope we can improve on our mistakes," the 63-year-old Wooden said. When asked his reaction to the loss, Walton said: "It's a thing of the past, something that can't be changed."

Montreal Triumphs

BUFFALO (AP) — Steve Shutt continued his sudden scoring spree with two goals Thursday night, pacing the Montreal Canadiens to a 4-1 National Hockey League victory over the Buffalo Sabres.

The goals gave Shutt five in Montreal's last three games and 11 for the season.

The Canadiens took a 2-0 lead in the opening period on goals by Guy Lapointe and Shutt. Lapointe shot from the blue line after another long drive of his was blocked by goalie Dave Dryden and rebounded far out.

Shutt put in a 45-foot shot during a power play. Lapointe's pass set him up.

The Sabres finally scored late in the second period. Rene Robert took a shot from near the blue line which goalie Wayne Thomas blocked. Thomas also blocked Real Lemieux' short rebound but Don Luce pushed the second rebound into an open corner of the net.

Frank Mahovich padded Montreal's lead to 3-1 early in the final period with a 30-foot blast just inside the goalpost. Shutt got his second goal when he drove home a loose puck.

Lincolmites Lead Field

Beatrice — New leaders were established in all but the team event during the third weekend of action at the 30th annual Burwood Bowling Tournament at the Tonka Lanes.

Alex Wertz of Lincoln rolled a 744 in the singles with his handicap to take over the lead in that department, while Lincoln's Bob Fillaus had a 702 scratch to take over second place with a 732 (handicap included) score.

Fillaus and Garry Young of Beatrice are now tied for the all events leadership at 1,923.

Howard and Loren Stone of Newman Grove took over the doubles leadership at 1,400, with Bill Kaiser and Charles Hatcliff of Lincoln now second at 1,324.

House of Lettering of Lincoln continues as the top team with a 3,185 score.

One of the top efforts of the week — the third of six before the tourney is completed — featured a 735 scratch by Max Jensen of Lincoln in the doubles event.

Marvel Accused By Exon Of Practicing 'Doubletalk'

Gov. J. James Exon Thursday said Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings engaged in "doubletalk" this week when he criticized the governor for phasing his capital construction budget recommendations over a number of years.

The Appropriations Committee, chaired by Marvel, did the same thing last year, the governor said.

And the voters in 1972 approved a constitutional amendment authorizing phased construction, he said.

The idea, Exon said, is to "allow the appropriation of money as needed instead of overappropriating funds which could not possibly be used because of the natural time lag that follows the planning, architectural drawings, bidding and phased construction which is familiar to us all."

Exon said budgeting for phased construction is "good government, and I am amazed at Senator Marvel's approach."

"Obviously, he either is confused on what he has previously stood for or he does not understand the straight-forward approach our administration has taken to the capital construction needs of the state."

Marvel is a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

"I hope that the campaign for governor will be based on legitimate issues without attempts to mislead and confuse the public," Exon said.

"It will be interesting indeed to see what Senator Marvel's eventual recommendations in capital construction, if any, will be when he finally gets around to making them," the governor said.

Exon said all of his capital construction budget recommendations for the University of Nebraska were "cleared in detail with university officials."

"They concurred and agreed that the amounts we provided for various construction programs were all that they could possibly use in those years, as appropriated."

Administrator Of Mid-Plains Is Hasemeyer

North Platte (AP) — The former head of North Platte Community College, Dr. William Hasemeyer, has been named administrator of the Mid-Plains Technical Community College Area.

The area takes in 18 counties and stretches from the South Dakota border to the Kansas border.

John Harms, president of McCook Community College, will be elevated to Mid-Plains College president, with campuses in North Platte and McCook. Ken Aten will remain president of North Platte Vocational Technical College.

Dr. Hasemeyer said his responsibilities will include working with state officials and the Legislature in an attempt to secure more funds for the college.

Darrell Peters of Arnold, chairman of the governing board, said: "We're being forced into this administrative structure by state officials and are opposed to the way they are going about it."

But, he said, "I do feel the change will result in increased efficiency over the entire area."

Porterfield Chief Of Staff At St. E's Health Center

Dr. John F. Porterfield was named chief of the medical staff at St. Elizabeth Health Center at the medical staff's annual meeting attended by more than 100 Lincoln physicians. His term of office is for two years.

Dr. Robert W. Gillespie was elected vice chief-of-staff and president-elect of the medical staff. Charles L. Baront was chosen secretary-treasurer. Both offices also are for two years.

Porterfield succeeds Dr. Robert L. Haag as medical chief-of-staff.

St. E's new medical chief is a native of Arkansas and graduate of the Washington University Medical School in St. Louis, Mo. He took his residency in pathology at the University of Missouri Medical Center and is a former member of the medical and teaching staff of the Medical Center.

Dr. John Porterfield Chief Of Staff

In 1964 Porterfield joined the former Laboratories for Clinical Medicine serving St. Elizabeth and other hospitals and clinics in Lincoln and southeast Nebraska.

The 46-year-old pathologist is a fellow in the College of American Pathologists and American Society of Clinical Pathologists. He is a member of the American Medical Association, Nebraska State Medical Association, and Lancaster County Medical Society.

Lincoln Surgeon To Chair ACS's Trauma Committee

A Lincoln surgeon, Dr. Robert W. Gillespie, has been appointed chairman of the American College of Surgeons committee on trauma. The announcement was made by Dr. Oscar P. Hampton Jr., director of the Trauma Division of the ACS.

The appointment became effective at the annual meeting of the ACS committee on trauma to be held in Tucson, Ariz., this week. It is for two years with eligibility for reappointment for

Joyce Brothers Due In Lincoln To Aid TV Show

Dr. Joyce Brothers — psychologist, radio-television personality and author — will be in Lincoln Saturday to assist in preparation of an introductory program for "Becoming Me," a film series on self-identity for the primary grades.

The series of twelve 15-minute programs was produced by the Great Plains National Instructional Television Library, a service of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The series, which features on-camera talent from Lincoln, is designed to assist the primary-level student in learning concepts of human behavior and developing behavioral understanding.

Filming was on location in Lincoln and in the studios of KUON-TV. John G. Rubin is the producer-director.

Alaska Quake Said 'Moderate'

Palmer, Alaska (UPI) — An earthquake centered in the Chugach Mountains 80 miles northeast of Anchorage was recorded Thursday by the Palmer Observatory Seismograph at 9:43 a.m.

Seismologists termed the quake "moderate," and said it registered 5.2 on the Richter scale.

The quake was felt in Anchorage, Palmer, Valdez, Glen Allen, and Whittier, but there were no reports of damage.

Market's Losses

Moderate

New York (AP) — After opening sharply lower, the stockmarket Thursday bounced around a bit and closed with moderate losses.

The Dow Jones average, down nearly 10 points in early trading, closed off 7.92 at 863.08.

Late in the session it had recovered most of its early loss, but selling just before the close drove prices lower again.

"Investors are still uncertain over the energy squeeze, interest rates, the economic outlook, and the prospects for improvement," remarked Manown ("Buck") Kisor, analyst with Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis.

According to Ralph Acampora, analyst with Harris, Upham & Co., "normal profit-taking" also played a role in the decline. He noted that the Dow had risen some 50 points in the past two weeks.

Conflicting Arab views as to when the oil boycott should end and the initial reluctance of major banks to follow Morgan Guaranty's prime rate cut also helped keep prices soft, brokers said.

Gold stocks were one exception to the general market, showing strong gains. In London trading, gold bullion hit record prices after a high-level suggestion that the Common Market's gold reserve be used to meet rising oil prices.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange totaled 15.98 million shares, up from 15.78 million the day before, and 747,000 shares.

The NYSE composite index fell 11.57, while the American Stock Exchange market index climbed 0.6 to 95.31.

Volume leader on the Big Board was Colonial Penn. Group, off 4 to 43.

Trading included two large blocks — one of 375,000 shares at 42 and one of 182,100 shares at 42 1/2.

Withdrawing Bills Not Easy

Withdrawing legislative bills can be more difficult than introducing them, three Omaha senators learned Thursday.

The upshot: bills requiring various classes of school districts to elect board members by districts—rather than at large—remain alive in the Legislature, despite the wishes of their sponsors.

The bills had been introduced as a counteroffensive to Omaha Sen. Ernest Chambers' measure

Death Benefit Nixed By Labor Committee

A bill to provide a minimum death benefit for state patrolmen killed in the line of duty was killed by the Legislature's Labor Committee Thursday.

The committee voted 5-2 to indefinitely postpone LB688. Sens. Fred Carstens and John Cavanaugh of Omaha voted against killing the bill.

A bill introduced by Carstens to exempt elementary and secondary school students from

Drivers License Bill Refused

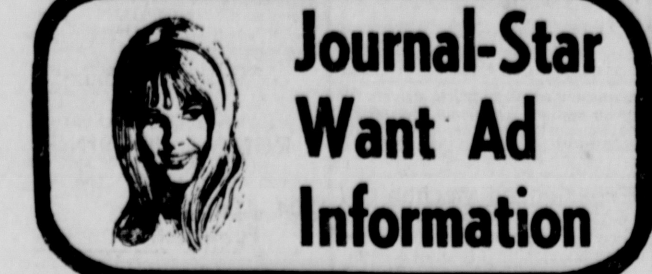

The proposal to provide for such suspensions, which would be for a 30-day period, was offered for introduction by the Legislature's Public Works Committee.

However, Sen. Richard F. Proud of Omaha and others wanted to know the source of the proposal.

Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora, chairman of the Public Works Committee, said the bill was requested of the committee Proud then said, noting the department is directly under the control of the governor, "if he wants the bill he can introduce it himself" rather than having a committee offer it.

The governor can have a bill introduced without having the matter put to a vote.
